Charges 'Scientific Hoax'

Professor in Attack on
'Equalitarian Dogma'

CHICAGO (AP) — Social sci- entists are deluding the nation by insisting on their "equalitarian dogma" that holds Negroes are mental equals of white persons, a leading educator has charged.

Prof. Henry E. Garrett, past president of the American Psy- chological Association, charged the dogma "is the scientific hoax of the century."

He said the dogma "at best represents a sincere if misguided effort to help the Negro by ignor- ing or even suppressing evidence of his mental and social immatur- ity."

Garrett's indictment appears in the current issue of Perspectives in Biology and Medicine, a pub- lication of the University of Chi- cago Press.

Editor Disagrees

It was written on invitation of Dr. Dwight Ingle, professor and head of the physiology department at the university and editor of the magazine. Ingle said he does not endorse Garrett's views.

Garrett said social scientists are quick to silence efforts by sci- entists to test the equalitarian dog- ma, and young scientists are g traf- reers placed in jeopardy by chal- lenging it.

He said the equalitarian dogma has been spread and accepted by "sincere humanitarians, social reformers, crusaders, sentimental- ists, politicians and many minis- ters of religion."

He said racial differences in mental ability are "innate and genetic" and not the result of dif- ferent environments.

Funds for Missiles, Ships, Planes Get Senate's Approval

Increase in Fighting Forces
Also Given Unanimous Vote

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Sen- ate has given unanimous support to two of President Kennedy's urgent defense requests.

Party lines dissolved Friday as the Senate passed in rapid suc- cession

Authorization for $975,570,000 for quick delivery of new mis- siles, ships and planes. The vote was 81-0.

Authority to hold fighting men or units on duty an extra year and to call up to 250,000 reservists to active duty. The vote was 75-0.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois had urged unanimous Senate votes on the bills "to show (Soviet Premier) Khrushchev we mean business."

House May Vote Next Week

Earlier Friday the House Armed Services Committee ap- proved the measures by a 37-0 vote. Chairman Carl Vinson, D-Ga., said he would ask House action early next week.

The additional $3,454,600,000 re- quested by Kennedy to strengthen conventional fighting forces was tacked onto the regular annual defense money bill by a Senate Appropriations subcommittee.

Sen. A. Willis Robertson, D-Va., manager for the money bill, said senators had agreed to withhold details until the full Appropria- tions Committee gives its ap- proval Tuesday.

But other senators said the committee not only put in all of the President's latest requests but

POCATELLO, Idaho (AP)— "I think they're all gone," said the quiet bandaged boy on the hos- pital bed. "I think my mommy and daddy and everybody died."

It was Clifford Thompson's only mention Friday of a tragic truth. He is the sole survivor of a fam- ily of six.

A dump truck careened off a parked car into the family sta- tion wagon Thursday evening. James H. Thompson of Tacoma, Wash., were killed instantly. So the quiet luxury of the Circle was Cheryl Elizabeth, his sister. Drive residential area of East who was 17 months old. Severe Winds Hit Portions of Ohio, Indiana

More Than Score
Injured; 10 Homes
Razed by Storm

Tornado winds pummeled west- ern Ohio and parts of Indiana Friday night, leaving a trail of destruction and injury.

More than a score of persons were reported hurt, most of them when 10 homes were flattened and perhaps a half-dozen others damaged in a new subdivision in Sidney, Ohio.

Sidney Police Chief John War- ner said it was a tornado that had hit his town, although he him- self didn't actually see it. The Darke County, Ohio, sheriff's of- fice said it was a twister that struck the little village of Ansonia.

Weather Bureau Disagrees

But the U. S. Weather Bureau in Cincinnati said its radar didn't pick up any tornado blips, only a "moderate to strong cell (of weather) associated with a re- ported tornado at Sidney."

Other places with heavy wind damage, but where twisters could not be confirmed, were Troy and Union City, Ohio.

State trooper Frank Ballard said a twister hit Redkey in northeastern Indiana, tearing a roof off the post office, slightly injuring two persons and leaving small trees and branches strewn through the town. Damage there was estimated at about $25,000.

Another violent storm, which some residents near Idaville in northwestern Indiana described as a twister—but not confirmed as such—destroyed a house and dam- aged several barns.

"Like Freight Train"

Rev. Murray, the farmer whose house was destroyed there, said the wind sounded "like a freight train." He and his wife hustled to the basement just before it hit, splintered his garage and moved another building 100 yards.

The storm moving west to east from Indiana into Ohio, hit hard- est at Sidney, in terms of in- juries. But of the 18 to 20 hurt there in the wind-ravaged subdivision, only one was admitted to the hos- pital. The others were treated for cuts and bruises and released.

More Money, Longer Hours

Busy Times Ahead for U. S. Induction Stations

WASHINGTON (AP)—The handle the anticipated armed forces increase.

In the wake of President Ken- nedy's military build-up move, Army officials said today, in- structions have been sent to the Continental Army Command to take whatever action is deemed necessary so that examining and induction stations can keep abreast of the mounting work load.

Temporary Instructions

These were described as tem- porary instructions. Firm direc- tives will follow final congress- ional action on Kennedy's re- quests for more money to add 225,000 men to the military serv- ices.

In turn, the Continental Army Command has relayed work to its regional commands, which have issued specific orders to the in- duction stations in their areas.

In at least one city, Albany, N. Y., recruiting and induction stations were told to begin work- ing 10 hours a day, 6 days a week.

Enlistments to Increase

The sharp rise in draft calls, starting in August, is expected to lead to an increase in enlistments and voluntary inductions.

Officials reported many sta- tions had been deluged with in- quiries but that information avail- able here does not yet reflect any sizable rise in actual enlistments.

Judging from past experience, these officials said, many youths of draft age are likely to step forward and sign up without wait- ing to be tapped through Selective Service.

U. S. Caught in Squeeze As Security Council Nears Ballot on Issue

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — In dealing with Soviet demands —France stood pat today in defying any U. N. attempt to inter- fere in her dispute with Tunisia. The Security Council neared a vote on the Bizerte crisis, which has caught the United States in a squeeze.

Speculation mounted that France might break her boycott of the debate and use the veto to block an Asian-African resolu- tion accusing her of flouting the week-old cease-fire call in Tun- isia.

Secretary-General Dag Ham- markjold told the council Friday night he had received evidence during his recent trip to Tun- isia that France had violated the council's cease-fire and assumed functions on Tunisian soil "nor- mally reserved to a sovereign state."

U. S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson conferred for 50 min- utes in Paris Friday with Presi- dent Charles de Gaulle on the Bizerte crisis.

Stevenson, chief of the U. S. delegation to the United Nations, said he hoped "there will be a mutually satisfactory resolution to this unfortunate affair."

Tunisia wants the United States to make good on its pronounce- ments of friendship to newly inde- pendent nations and back Tun- isia's demands that France pull out of her big air-naval base at Bizerte.

State's August
Draft Up 69 Men

MADISON (AP)—Col. Bentley Courtenay, state director of Se- lective Service, said Friday that Wisconsin's August draft quota will be increased by 69 men— from 112 to 181.

The national quota for August has been increased from 8,000 to 13,000.

Courtenay said the Wisconsin men will start leaving their homes on Aug. 1. About 80 per cent will go to the Milwaukee induction center and the others will go to Minneapolis.

The national draft quota for September is 20,000 men, but only one was admitted to the hos- pital. The others were treated for cuts and bruises and released.

5 Flee Hospital For Insane but 4 are Recaptured

BEACON, N. Y. (AP) — Four of five escaped inmates of Mat- teawan State Hospital, including the slayer of Greenwich Village poet Maxwell Bodenheim were captured today.

Weinberg Arroyo

Harold Weinberg, 33, the poet's killer, was found hiding in woods a few miles from the institution shortly after three other inmates were picked up in the same vicin- ity.

Police believed the lone remain- ing escapee, Pedro Arroyo, 31, was hiding somewhere in the woodland area.

The five saved an iron bar in a washroom of the institution shortly before midnight and fled.

The first escapees picked up were Raphael Bastie, 35, Steve Wuchich, 40, and Walter Pierce, 19.

Weinberg, Arroyo and Bastie had been charged with murder, Wuchich, extortion, and Pierce, grand larceny and burglary.

Weinberg, a dishwasher, was committed April 7, 1954, for the bizarre Greenwich Village slaying of Bodenheim and his wife in Weinberg's dingy apartment.

Nelson Picks Seven for Fair Board

New Exposition Department to Broaden Program

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — A Wisconsin exposition department came into being today as Gov. Gaylord Nelson appointed seven members of the board of directors of the agency that will take over management of the state fair and make it more representative of the diversified Wisconsin economy.

Among the directors named is Martin Salm, rural Chilton, prominent Calumet County farm leader and worker in the Catholic Rural Life Conference.

The Legislature this year acted to divorce the state fair from the State Department of Agriculture, and to provide a mechanism for broadening the exposition program of the state. The measure was sponsored by the agricultural department and widely backed by farm and other economic groups.

The exposition board will have the power to borrow money and to expand the existing state fair park at West Allis, or at a possible new location.

Supervise Fairs

The new agency will also supervise regional, local and county fairs, and will administer the state appropriations for their financing.

The fair legislation provided for the representation of various economic interests on the board of directors, in contrast to the State Board of Agriculture, consisting entirely of farmers and agricultural interest representatives.

Board Members

Other nominees to the directing board, who must have the confirmation of the State Senate, are: Francis Rondeau, Mosinee, head of a packing company;

Harry T. Ruff, Caladonia, a farmer;

Paul Looft, superintendent of schools at West Bend, and former New London superintendent;

Herbert Velsor, West Allis, insurance and real estate dealer;

Robert McCabe, professor of wildlife management at the University of Wisconsin, and Werner Schaefer, director of the recreational division of the Wisconsin AFL-CIO, Milwaukee.

The board is expected to name Willard Masterson, manager of the present state fair, as full-time administrative officer at a salary of $15,000.

Ponies Return to Island After Annual Auction

CHINCOTEAGUE, Va. (AP)—

Some 50 wild ponies, with new brands burned into their hides, return to Assateague Island today to wait for another roundup.

Seventy-five of the little colts were sold at auction Thursday during the annual firemen's carnival. They brought prices ranging from $47.50 to $148.

The ponies not sold at the auction will swim across the narrow channel to Assateague Friday afternoon in the same manner, the larger herd was brought over Wednesday morning.

The annual auction has been held each year since the middle of the last century.

Was Missionary in China

Kenneth Latourette, Christian Historian, Still Active at 77

BY FRED GOLDEN

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—At the turn of the century in his native Oregon City, Ore., a serious boy named Kenneth Scott Latourette was planning a career in either banking or law.

Instead, he journeyed to China as a missionary.

Out of this youthful change of direction has grown an extraordinary life of scholarly achievement and Christian dedication.

Now 77, Latourette is an authority on the histories of China and Christianity and has written 87 books on the subjects in the last 54 years.

Latourette's books have sold more than a million copies in English alone—an amazing number for works of scholarship.

His monumental work is the seven-volume "The History of Christianity in China," published by Yale, on the early relations between 1837 to 1945. Many theologians consider his "A History of Christianity" (1953) an essential part of their libraries.

Although he is comfortably past the Biblical age of three score years and ten, this remarkably vigorous man declines to slow his pace. He is presently exploring the story of Christianity in the last 160 years in the fourth book of a five-part series, "Christianity in a Revolutionary Age."

Looking back to 1909, Latourette says, "I became a missionary because it seemed the right thing to do at the time."

"Many of us felt that we had a duty to fulfill, both as Christians and Americans. We didn't think we could meet this obligation by slipping into a comfortable profession at home."

"It was a kind of Peace Corps—50 years early."

Latourette was a traveling secretary for the Student Volunteer Movement for Foreign Missions in 1909-10 and then joined the faculty of Yale-in-China at Changsha, an interior city.

He was forced to cut short his missionary-teaching career in 1912 because of a bad bout with dysentery.

Back in the United States, Latourette joined the history faculty at Reed College. He discovered he had talent for writing while working on his doctoral thesis at Yale, on the early relations between the United States and China.

He is a Baptist—or Evangelical Christian as he prefers to call himself—and was ordained as a Baptist minister in 1916. He was a member of the committee that drafted the constitution for the World Council of Churches.

Latourette's treatment of the impact of Roman Catholicism is regarded as scrupulously fair. He notes with obvious satisfaction that his works have been placed on file in the Vatican and that the Maryknoll

Canada Will Have New Party

2,000 Delegates To Convene Next Week in Ottawa

OTTAWA (AP)—Two thousand delegates are gathering here next week to launch a new Canadian political party—a toned-down offshoot of the unsuccessful socialistic Cooperative Commonwealth Federation (CCF).

The founding fathers of the New Party—and that's what it will be called—are largely trade unionists and members of the CCF. They hope the new party will make a bigger splash than the CCF, which is going out of business after 28 years.

The New Party will be financed by special assessments on union members—but they don't have to pay if they do not approve the party's policies—and dues from card-carrying members.

Born in the depression 1930s, the CCF will go out of business with the inauguration of its off-spring at the week-long convention opening here Monday.

Change of Slogans

The CCF holds only 8 of the 265 seats in the house of commons and rules in only one province, Saskatchewan. Its best year was 1948, when it had 28 members in commons.

The New Party is mulling some of the CCF's earlier slogans and platforms in hopes of attracting liberal-minded social reformers that aren't died in the wool socialists.

In a 30-page declaration of policy, New Party founders put forward the ideas of socialism with ownership for such purposes as the operation of utilities, the development of resources, the elimination of monopoly concentrations for everyone and abundance for all.

The CCF advocated complete and directly affecting the entire government control of the economy.

Prof. David Fellman said the message "had to come. Kennedy laid it on the line. We had to have it. We are defending ourselves and our vital national interest—not just Berlin."

"I assume the situation is very perilous or Kennedy would not have said what he did. He must have the facts. The speech was frightening; it was bad news; it was a rough one to listen to. He spoke frankly."

Prof. Ralph K. Huitt, agreed, saying: "I think the President's speech was one he had to make. The important thing is to prevent a war that could start through miscalculation. This speech lets Premier Khrushchev know we'll honor our commitments. I think most Americans agree we must do that."

Prof. James L. McCamy: "There was nothing new in the President's policy statement. It's a restatement of what Truman and Eisenhower advocated. It's been true since 1948. We could have gone to war when the blockade of Berlin was put in and we had the airlift. The President put the current situation in the same category with Munich when France and Britain gave in to Germany."

"You can't yield now. You must stand on policy. We must buckle down and work harder for peace. I believe the next few years will see the direst, most difficult type of military action. Young men will suffer unless they make up their minds to endure it. It's going to be the worst kind of waiting."

Prof. Bernard C. Cohen: "I was favorably impressed by the message, by the direction in which the chief executive moved. The more he asks of us, the better off we'll be. There is a real possibility that the Berlin crisis is only the continuance of a long series of controversies with the Soviet Union."

"It is likely to get worse than better with the passage of time unless we do something in a major way to restore our political and military position."

Prof. John A. Armstrong said the President could have made his position more effective by announcing the immediate mobilization of a number of national guard divisions.

"Otherwise," he said, "it was a fair statement of our position. It was an indication of the thinking and planning in Washington. The boost in the budget and our military force is desirable. Kennedy put pressure on those who oppose us. He reaffirmed in clear fashion the American position and pointed out the seriousness of it all. And this was good."

Professors' Comment

Political Science Faculty Views Berlin Talk

MADISON — How do University of Wisconsin political scientists view the Berlin and world situation? Now that President Kennedy has laid down a forceful national policy, how do they regard the immminence of conflict, the effect on Americans?

Here are statements from six members of the political science faculty:

Prof. Leon D. Epstein, department chairman, said: "I believe that Kennedy is right to emphasize a build-up of our conventional forces so that, as he said, we will not be faced with a choice between humiliation and nuclear war. I think this applies to crisis areas in addition to Berlin. I think the situation is dangerous, but the President's message doesn't make it any more so. We live in a dangerous world in any case, and we would not make it less dangerous by avoiding the measures necessary to meet the situation."

Prof. James L. McCamy: "There was nothing new in the President's policy statement. It's a restatement of what Truman and Eisenhower advocated. It's been true since 1948. We could have gone to war when the blockade of Berlin was put in and we had the airlift. Prof. David Fellman said the message "had to come. Kennedy laid it on the line. We had to have it. We are defending ourselves and our vital national interest—not just Berlin."

"I assume the situation is very perilous or Kennedy would not have said what he did. He must have the facts. The speech was frightening; it was bad news; it was a rough one to listen to. He spoke frankly."

Prof. Ralph K. Huitt, agreed, saying: "I think the President's speech was one he had to make. The important thing is to prevent a war that could start through miscalculation. This speech lets Premier Khrushchev know we'll honor our commitments. I think most Americans agree we must do that."

Prof. James L. McCamy: "There was nothing new in the President's policy statement. It's a restatement of what Truman and Eisenhower advocated. It's been true since 1948. We could have gone to war when the blockade of Berlin was put in and we had the airlift. The President put the current situation in the same category with Munich when France and Britain gave in to Germany."

"You can't yield now. You must stand on policy. We must buckle down and work harder for peace. I believe the next few years will see the direst, most difficult type of military action. Young men will suffer unless they make up their minds to endure it. It's going to be the worst kind of waiting."

Prof. Bernard C. Cohen: "I was favorably impressed by the message, by the direction in which the chief executive moved. The more he asks of us, the better off we'll be. There is a real possibility that the Berlin crisis is only the continuance of a long series of controversies with the Soviet Union."

"It is likely to get worse than better with the passage of time unless we do something in a major way to restore our political and military position."

Prof. John A. Armstrong said the President could have made his position more effective by announcing the immediate mobilization of a number of national guard divisions.

"Otherwise," he said, "it was a fair statement of our position. It was an indication of the thinking and planning in Washington. The boost in the budget and our military force is desirable. Kennedy put pressure on those who oppose us. He reaffirmed in clear fashion the American position and pointed out the seriousness of it all. And this was good."

The POWER of FAITH

by Howard Brodie

"Christians Must Learn from one another; let us all have the courage and mutual respect to speak together as free men," says Archbishop Lakovos, warmhearted Primate of the Greek Orthodox Church of North and South America.

As representatives of Eastern Orthodoxy with 6 million U. S. members, he was invited to pray at Kennedy's inauguration. The tall, confident Archbishop, an American citizen with close Protestant ties, was elected a President of the World Council of Churches.

"Believing we have the one truth does not keep us apart," he believes. "If one stands on firm ground, he can stretch forth his arms to embrace others, too."

OTTAWA (AP)—Two thousand delegates are gathering here next week to launch a new Canadian political party—a toned-down offshoot of the unsuccessful socialistic Cooperative Commonwealth Federation (CCF).

The founding fathers of the New Party—and that's what it will be called—are largely trade unionists and members of the CCF. They hope the new party will make a bigger splash than the CCF, which is going out of business after 28 years.

The New Party will be financed by special assessments on union members—but they don't have to pay if they do not approve the party's policies—and dues from card-carrying members.

Born in the depression 1930s, the CCF will go out of business with the inauguration of its off-spring at the week-long convention opening here Monday.

Change of Slogans

The CCF holds only 8 of the 265 seats in the house of commons and rules in only one province, Saskatchewan. Its best year was 1948, when it had 28 members in commons.

The New Party is mulling some of the CCF's earlier slogans and platforms in hopes of attracting liberal-minded social reformers that aren't died in the wool socialists.

In a 30-page declaration of policy, New Party founders put forward the ideas of socialism with ownership for such purposes as the operation of utilities, the development of resources, the elimination of monopoly concentrations for everyone and abundance for all.

The CCF advocated complete and directly affecting the entire government control of the economy.

Prof. David Fellman said the message "had to come. Kennedy laid it on the line. We had to have it. We are defending ourselves and our vital national interest—not just Berlin."

Psychiatrist Says Weinke Was Sane

uel Sigman, the Oshkosh medical man said he had examined Weinke once and had been in court Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, as well as Friday, observing Weinke's actions and listening to testimony.

In cross-examination Dr. Peter C. Cain got down to what he said was the crux of the case. He reviewed Weinke's testimony that, because of Weinke's physical disability the defendant's dreams of marriage and a family were discarded. Then, Cain told the doctor, he (Weinke) met a girl who loved him and they were happily married for a time.

"Now wouldn't this personal problem be had, plus the threat of losing the only girl he ever had, have an effect on him?" The doctor said he had no reason to doubt Weinke was upset emotionally. (Weinke had testified his wife told him shortly before she was shot that Weinke would never see his daughter again, that he never did anything right and that she intended to have sexual relations with other men.)

Cain cross-examined Dr. Schubert closely on a report signed by Schubert which pronounced Weinke mentally fit to stand trial. A portion of the report, written by a social worker at Central State, said Weinke had "bottled up more anxiety and pressure than he could tolerate." Dr. Schubert said the conclusion was that of the social worker and not necessarily his own.

Accused Questioned

Weinke underwent a vigorous cross-examination from Sigman who questioned him time and time again concerning statements he made to have made about his intent to kill his wife. Weinke's answers were general, hazy and he said he could not recall, although admitting it was possible he might have said the things attributed to him. At least three witnesses for the prosecution testified earlier in the trial that they had heard Weinke threaten to kill his wife.

"You knew that a loaded gun is dangerous?" Sigman asked Weinke. "You knew that when you pointed your gun at your wife that she could be hurt?" "Yes," Weinke replied.

Dr. Simon Cherkasky, Kaukauna, was the first witness at the afternoon session. He said Weinke had come to him for corrective treatment. He described Weinke as "very disturbed and agitated. He wanted to keep his wife's affection," the doctor testified. "His physical condition was such, however, that the operation could not be performed immediately."

Emotional Effects

The defect, Dr. Cherkasky said, would have a profound effect on a man's emotions. He said Weinke was a physically poor specimen with an emotional problem.

Dr. Donald Bravick, 1701 E. Marquette St., who first examined

Weinke on Jan. 13 in preparation for corrective surgery, described the defect in medical terminology.

Another witness Friday was Richard Macumber, route 2, Appleton, a salesman who said he had several drinks and dinner with Shirley Weinke late in December. He said he received a telephone call from a man he identified as Shirley's stepfather, Louis Hehner, about 7 a. m. the next day.

He said Hehner cursed him "and wanted to know what I was doing out with his wife." Macumber said he hung up on the caller but in a moment the phone rang again. Macumber said it was the same man who repeated much of what he said before.

"When I asked him what I could do about it," Macumber testified, "he said leave my wife alone and stay out of my restaurant." Hehner operates Hehner's Dairy Lunch at 1713 S. Oneida St.

Auto Collisions Take 2 Lives on State Highways

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A pair of two-car crashes in widely separated areas of Wisconsin have killed two men, one a Milwaukee physician and the other a visiting Californian bound for a Braves baseball game.

Their deaths boosted the state traffic fatality toll for the year to 469, compared with 443 at this time a year ago.

Dr. James P. Rowan, 61, of Milwaukee, was killed at 11:45 p.m. Friday in a two-car collision four miles east of Rhinelander on Highway 8. John E. Flannery, 48, of Monico, was taken to St. Mary's Hospital in Rhinelander in serious condition. Dr. Rowan and Flannery were alone in their cars which collided just after the three witnesses for the prosecution testified earlier in the trial.

Bedros Marzhaian, 58, Los Angeles, was killed when a car driven by his niece, Miriam Serghanian, 22, of Madison, collided with another automobile on Highway 30 in Jefferson County Friday.

Jefferson County authorities said that Miss Serghanian told them that her uncle fell out of the door of her car into the path of the other automobile when the vehicles collided.

Missile, Ship, Plane Funds Get Approval

fense Robert S. McNamara had asked no funds to continue jet bomber production and recommended that the B70 be limited to an experimental prototype aircraft rather than a complete weapons system.

These extra funds would push the current fiscal defense outlay up above $47 billion.

Allies Criticized
Despite the unanimous senate votes, there were sharp protests that the European Allies—Britain, France and West Germany—were not carrying their share of the added burdens.

"We must force our Allies to do their share," Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., a long-time foe of foreign aid, said.

Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., protested that European partners were spending relatively less of their incomes on defense than the United States.

Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., agreed that European Allies must contribute more.

No Incentive Pay
Referring to the build-up of non-nuclear forces, Russell said he doesn't "think we should give any impression" that the United States would limit itself to a conventional weapons defense.

"We once said we wouldn't be the first to use the atomic bomb," Russell said. That, he added, gives the Russians an advantage.

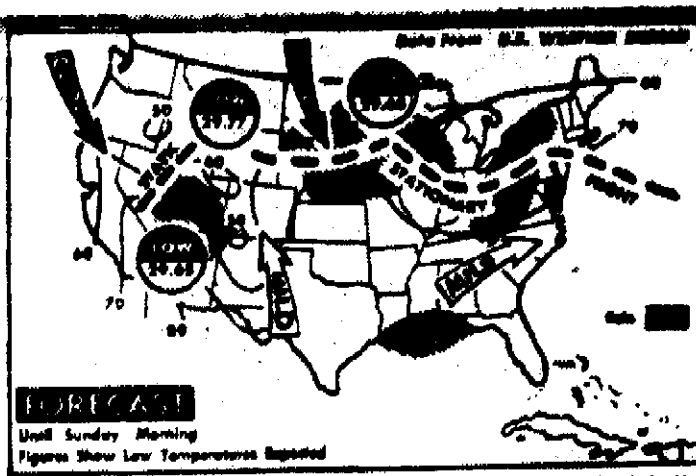

The reserve call-up bill was passed without a proposed "jump sum incentive payment" sought by Sen. Francis Case, R-S.D., for those volunteering for 12 months duty. Case, in his amendment, also proposed extra pay for all men called up under the build-up program, whether they volunteered or not. It was shouted down.

Russell, floor manager for the bill, said Case's proposal would "clutter up the bill and would be costly and cumbersome."

Kennedy Gives $1,000 To Formosa University

TAIPEI, Formosa, (AP)—President Kennedy has donated $1,000 to the fund for the reactivation in Formosa of the Roman Catholic Fu Jen University, formerly located at Peiping.

Sites have been selected for the university, but construction of the other automobile when the buildings has not yet been started.

Scattered Showers and Thunderstorms, some heavy will be general Saturday night from the northern plains to the western fringes of the Great Lakes as well as in the Appalachians and parts of the Ohio and Tennessee valleys. Thundershowers are due also in the central and southern plateau and parts of the middle Gulf coast. It will remain warm over most of the nation, with a cooling trend in the Dakotas and eastern Montana.

3 British Soldiers Accused of Espionage In Iraqi Border Flight

DAMASCUS (AP)—Abdul Karim Altai, Iraqi Consul General, charged three British soldiers seized inside Iraq's southern border were "carrying out espionage" on orders of the British command in Kuwait.

Altai said in a statement that a preliminary investigation had shown the Britons carried maps of the utmost importance.

Baghdad Radio said earlier this week the three would be tried by an Iraqi court martial but did not disclose the charges against them.

The soldiers, members of a British force sent to Kuwait after Iraqi Premier Abdel Karim Kassem threatened to annex the oil-rich sheikdom, disappeared Sunday while on a patrol mission in an armored car.

They are the only prisoners reported take so far along the tense border. The soldiers said they were ordered to reconnoiter the Salwan-Kuwait highway and they strayed across the unmarked frontier.

Iraqi officials said maps, arms and ammunition were found in the armored car. The British Embassy in Baghdad, contending the border crossing was by mistake, has been trying unsuccessfully to get the trio released.

Jeff Chandler Leaves $600,000 for Daughters

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The will of screen actor Jeff Chandler, leaving a gross estate of $600,000 in trust for two daughters, has been admitted to probate.

Superior Court Judge Clarke E. Stephens admitted the document Thursday. It was signed June 9, 1959. The daughters, Jamie, 14, and Dana, 11, were born to him and his former wife, Marjorie Hoschelle Chandler, an actress.

The actor died June 17.

France Firm In Defiance On Tunisia

no intention of settling the issue through such a procedure."

Before the council session, Armand Berard, French delegation chief, announced he would not take part in debate on Tunisia. Berard said France was ready to discuss cease-fire details with Tunisia at any time. Tunisia had failed to agree to such talks, he said.

Berard stayed away from the council chamber, but his deputy, Pierre Millet, showed up and sat silently in his place.

A French delegation spokesman told a reporter, "We will vote if necessary," sparking speculation that France might use the veto if it need be to knock down the resolution put in by the United Arab Republic, Liberia and Ceylon.

U.S. Delegate Charles Vost told the council the United States still felt the final solution lies in direct negotiation between France and Tunisia.

Soviet Delegate Platon D. Morozov lashed out at France as a violator of council decrees. He said France must be made to toe the mark.

Hammarskjold, who returned Thursday from his three-day visit to Tunisia at President Habib Bourguiba's behest, told the council he had seen cease-fire violations involving French troops.

The secretary-general said French forces had taken over policing and other functions that normally are the province of Tunisians.

Hammarskjold referred only fleetingly to France's refusal to grant him an audience either in Tunis or Paris. He stressed that he had gone to Tunisia in the kind of peace role defined for the secretary-general in the U.N. charter, but that he had not attempted to mediate the dispute.

Farid Chehlaoui of the United Arab Republic pressed for a council vote on the resolution accusing France of failing to heed the cease-fire and demanding immediate compliance. Britain's Sir Patrick Dean asked that the vote be delayed until today to give time for study.

The Tunisian envoy, Mongi Slim, who had asked for the council session, recited a long list of French actions he said violated the cease-fire.

Bourguiba's party stepped up its efforts throughout Tunisia, meanwhile, to beef up nationalist fervor in the face of disappointments in the campaign against France.

Mass meetings to pledge solidarity with Bourguiba were organized in a score of Tunisian towns and villages.

Stuffed Gulls Prevent Accidents Over Airport

LEEUWARDEN, Netherlands (AP)—Two hundred stuffed gulls in frightening postures are helping scare live ones away from possible collisions with planes over Leeuwarden airport.

Since the dummies — beaks wide, wings poised for urgent flight, and emitting synthetic shrieks of distress — there have been no accidents involving gulls at Leeuwarden airfield. Last year there were 20.

The bogus gulls were installed early this year by Dr. J. Hardenberg, adviser to the air force, who said he got some of his material from the University of California, where he studied.

There's only one hitch. Occasionally a flock of gulls from the Baltic area fly by and they aren't scared by the warning cries.

"Apparently," said an air force spokesman, "these gulls speak a different language."

Families Have More Fun Together in a home where there is a Hammond Organ, according to Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Sommers, 543 N. Lincoln avenue. The family is shown in the picture above, enjoying an evening of fellowship around the Hammond Organ, one of the most popular corners of their home.

In this day and age of varied interests of members of the family, it is a good thing to have a focal point in the home, where family get-togethers can provide entertainment as well as a firm foundation in the realm of musical appreciation.

In the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Sommers, this is the case. Sommers is an officer in the Appleton Police force. Mrs. Sommers is a busy wife and mother, working in addition as the advertising manager of the Elm Tree Bicycles. Each of the five children has his interests outside of the home.

But one thing they all enjoy in common is the delightful enjoyment of their Hammond Organ. It doesn't matter who is playing. The rest of the family will gather around and the music will thrill each and every one of them. It is proof positive that the Hammond Organ Studio's statement "Anyone can play a tune in minutes on the Hammond Chord Organ" is true and correct.

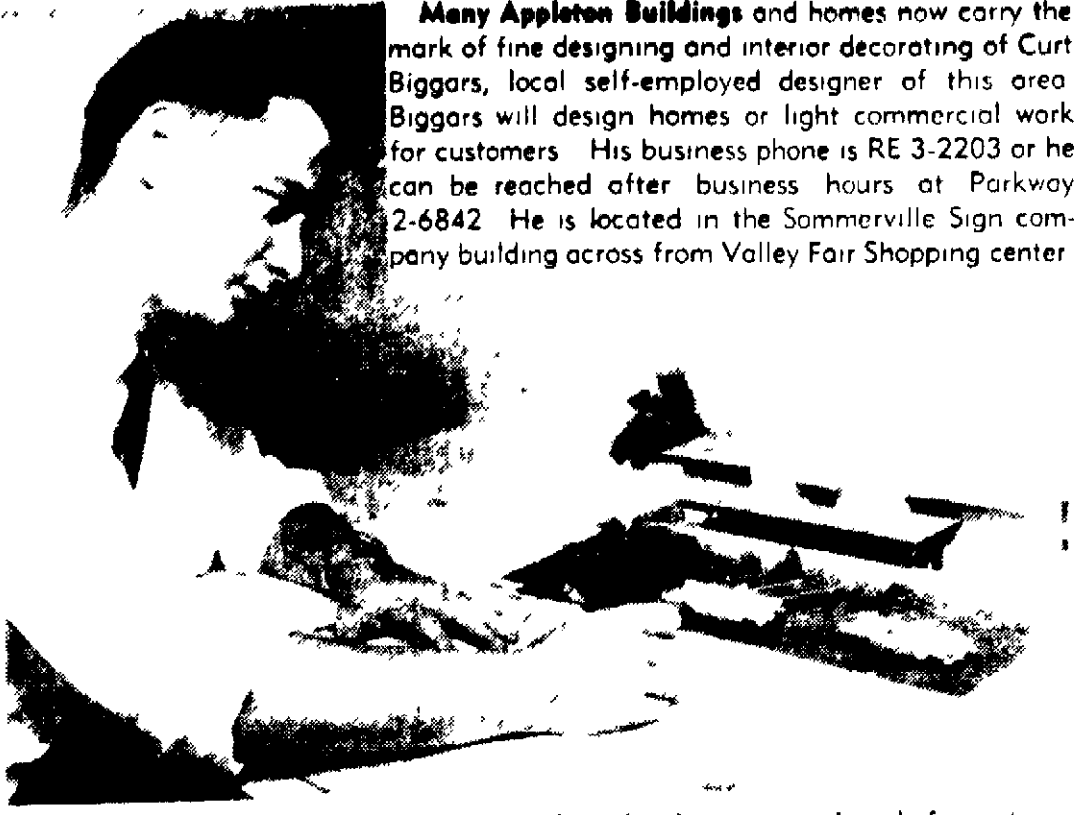

Readers are invited to stop in at Hammond Organ Studios of the Fox Cities located at 788 W. Foster street across from Valley Fair Shopping center and let one of their representatives or teachers show them how easy it is to play a Hammond Chord organ.

In the privacy of one of their studios you may enjoy the thrill of creating beautiful music yourself in just minutes.

Or if you prefer call Hammond Organ Studios of Fox Cities RE 4-0083, and ask for a free home demonstration without obligation.

The Hammond teachers say it doesn't matter if you've never touched a keyboard even if you don't know a thing about music. They claim you'll find the Hammond organ easy to play and you'll taste the particular joy that comes only to those who create music themselves.

Don't forget to watch the Hammond Organ program on Channel 5 television every Thursday evening at 6:25. Remember, families have more fun together in a home where there is a Hammond Organ.

Many Appleton Buildings and homes now carry the mark of fine designing and interior decorating of Curt Biggars, local self-employed designer of this area. Biggars will design homes or light commercial work for customers. His business phone is RE 3-2203 or he can be reached after business hours at Parkway 2-6842. He is located in the Somerville Sign company building across from Valley Fair Shopping center.

Don't MELT AWAY

Do Hot, Humid Days leave you feeling tired and worn out. Is your house dripping in the summer and like the desert in the winter? Menasha Sheet Metal, located at 314 Racine street, Menasha, can provide the solution for you and you will have a cool, comfortable home in which to work or relax. Bill Hartzheim, head of the firm, urges area readers to stop in for additional information or call PA 2-3653.

The air in your home is the Menasha firm has now in concern of Menasha Sheet Metal stalled more than 900 Bard units 314 Racine street Menasha. Is it in the Fox Cities' homes. Both too high and too low relative humidity is costly and damaging so control is of vital importance. Hartzheim said. The appliance humidifiers are designed to evaporate more than one gallon of water per hour—more than enough capacity for the average six room house.

A new summer and winter air conditioning unit is one of the best in Bard according to William Hartzheim owner and operator. The unit contains an electronic air purifier which removes all odors and 97 per cent of the dust and bacteria present in the home. It gives positive winter humidification cools and purifies the air. "This is a definite improvement on nature," Hartzheim said.

Theater Holds Magic For Both Plays, Actors

Holiday Players to Give SRO Mystery; Attic Star Hopes for Acting Career

BY JINGO

Carol Channing, a real trouper who has made audiences as good friends as her diamonds, speaks for all actors when she claims that trouble with getting drunk on applause is the hangover lasts a lifetime.

If the principle works for plays as well as players, Agatha Christie's "The Mousetrap" has had a very pixed life with the "hangover" as yet to come. Since it opened nine years ago, the mystery melodrama has been causing SRO signs in box offices all over the world.

The Holiday Players hope the magic holds out for them when "The Mousetrap" opens at the Manawa Theater Tuesday night.

More in line with Miss Channing's observation is Barbara Casper, who will close out an exceptionally fine run tomorrow in Attic Theater's "Petrified Forest."

The young graduate of Appleton High School was a victim of stage bug bite, but after all of that well deserved applause she should have a fatal case of stage fever. And audiences should be happy about it.

She will enter Marquette University this fall to start study under Father Walsh preparatory for an assault on the Great White Way. Her trip to Marquette will be a return engagement for her. Last fall she matriculated and then promptly fell out of an apple tree hurting her back. The injury kept her in Appleton, but she promises to return summers whether she is hurt or not. Watch for her.

This piece of history forwarded by Harry James may help to explain inflation in the most graphic manner. Paul White-man at his very best — and that was very, very good — demanded $6,500 a night. Today $12,000 is the nightly price being paid Lawrence Welk. It's like comparing filet mignon and weiners. Of course, Pops didn't supply champagne. Just the best music available.

Tom Ewell, the flexiblefaced funnyman from the University of Wisconsin, will leave his TV serial in preference to a cross-country, one-man show "American Humor" after he finishes a chore at 20th Century-Fox, starring in "Tender Is the Night."

Darren McGavin will turn his back on TV's Mike Hammer in favor of the stage also. He will star in a Broadway offering that will include in the cast Henry Fonda's talented offspring, Jane and Peter. Daddy Henry will be down the street in "The Commentator," a play about TV.

Jerry Wald is planning on filming "Adventures of a Young Man," the Ernest Hemingway fictional autobiography. He hopes he will be able to sign Genesee Depot's most famous couple, Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne, as the parents in the show. Good luck, Jerry. If he's successful, it will be the Lunts' second film. The first was "The Guardsman" back in the '30s.

Publicity and Paar have become synonymous, but watch out. Paar was all set to give Grace Metalious a big play for her "Return to Peyton Place" until Rain-in-the-Face found out the show includes a "merciless satire" of the leader; so no Paar publicity for Grace.

Reynolds Photo

The Villain, Hero and damsel in distress in that order are portrayed by Appleton's William Munchow, Lawrence Pressman and Lynn Carlyle in the classic melodrama, "Ten Nights in a Barroom," current offering of the Peninsula Players. The production, which also includes "olio" interludes between acts, will be given at 8:30 p.m. today and 7:30 p.m. Sunday in the Players' Theatre-in-a-Garden at Fish Creek.

Making Deadbeat Squirm

Miami Advertising Man Harrasses Castro to Collect Promotion Bill

BY BEN FUNK

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — This war with Erwin Harris, the Cuban prime minister's hijacking of an American, in effect, the Cuban prime minister said in his 26th of July address that he would gladly give up the $3.5 million Eastern Air Lines prop-jet if the Yankees would take Harris out of his whiskers.

He called attention to the seizure of 10 Cuban planes in the United States by Harris, a Miami advertising man. And he said if that business were stopped he would return the stolen airliner. Harris has been grabbing and selling Cuban property to satisfy a debt the Castro regime won't pay.

General Mills Introduces New Betty Crocker Products

Three new Betty Crocker potato products will be introduced to the housewives of the Fox Cities beginning July 27, according to Robert Smith, General Mills Milwaukee district manager.

The first to be introduced will be Betty Crocker Potato Boats, and instant baked potato boat, complete in one package with all necessary ingredients included.

The other two new Betty Crocker potato products are Betty Crocker Potato Salad mix and Betty Crocker Pan Fry potatoes. The Potato Salad mix can be used to make hot or cold potato salad and contains an exclusive blend of spices and seasoning.

The one step Pan Fry Potatoes are complete with only the addition of shortening and salt needed.

All three new Betty Crocker potato discoveries will be advertised in the Appleton Post-Crescent.

Trade Names
Castro and his official newspaper Revolution have screamed that the persistent Harris is a Yankee fascist and imperialist. Harris says Castro is a deadbeat.

"The difference between Castro and me," says Harris, "is that he seized American property illegally. I have attached Cuban stuff by due process of law, with court orders."

Their feud dates back to February last year, when Harris cancelled out of a $1.6 million advertising and public relations contract with the Cuban government.

When the contract was signed, Castro was making friendly gestures toward American tourists and investors. Then, Harris says, Ernesto (Che) Guevara "assumed control of the economic life of Cuba, made it a communist satellite and began frightening tourists away."

Advertising Bill
Harris got out of the deal in a hurry, but he had already booked more than $300,000 in newspaper and magazine ads — debts for which his agency was responsible.

Letters from the Cuban government acknowledged that Harris had the money coming, but he was told that he would have to collect later because Cuba was short of U.S. dollars.

"They had dollars, all right," Harris said, "but they were going to Czechoslovakia for arms and ammunition."

Harris went to see Castro, was referred to Guevara, and spent 8 1/2 hours cooling his heels outside the office of the economic minister. When he got in, Harris said "Guevara laughed in my face."

Back home fighting mad, Harris got a court order impounding $1.6 million in Cuban deposits in Florida banks. Another court freed the funds by ruling that a foreign government couldn't be sued.

On appeal, however, Harris got a ruling that Cuba could, too, be sued on a commercial contract, and he won a $429,000 judgment, which included his court costs and expenses. By that time, Cuba had the money out of Harris' reach.

Harris began his court-approved, one-man guerrilla war by attaching a $3.8 million British-made turbo-prop in which Castro himself flew to a United Nations meeting in New York.

As it turned out, Castro never had paid for the plane and Harris couldn't collect. But he was only warming up to the fight.

Until then, Cuba had been permitted to take back planes hijacked by defectors and flown into Florida. Harris began slapping attachments on them as they landed. He got five C46s, one military Cessna, a DC3 and three crop dusters — and he again got Castro's goat.

Radio Threat
In a July 5 radio-television speech, Castro threatened to retaliate by keeping any American planes which were hijacked and flown into Cuba.

Harris attached a million-dollar shipment of tobacco from Cuba but released it when he learned that American companies already had paid for it. He seized 42 tank-type diesel engines bound for Cuba.

Now Harris turned his attention to the port of Palm Beach, from which American supplies were going to Cuba by railroad car ferry. He grabbed a 28-car load shipment just before it was to go aboard the ferry.

"Lard is important to Cuba," Harris said, "not just for food, but to be sent to Czechoslovakia for use in making nitro-glycerin."

Harris heard he had found only

"We have written some law showing how to deal with communist liars and thieves," he said. Following the precedent established by Harris, two American firms this week obtained judgments against Cuba totaling more than $7 million and began their own search for Cuban property.

Wife of Democratic Leader Wins Divorce
LOS ANGELES (AP)—The wife of Mark Boyar, 66, wealthy real estate developer and Democratic party leader, obtained a divorce on testimony that he locked her out of their bedroom and later tossed out her clothing.

Boyar was chief fund raiser for the 1960 Democratic National Convention.

The divorce hearing Thursday was marked by assertions that Boyar had gambled and lost $1 million at Las Vegas, Nev. Counsel for Boyar denied it.

Under terms of a property settlement, Ruth Boyar, 30, waived alimony in exchange for stocks having a minimum value of $1,704,000.

Medical Care for Aged Is Up Again

Congressional hearings now are being held on the administration supported bill to finance medical assistance for the elderly through the Social Security system. During these hearings some attention will be given to the effectiveness of the Kerr-Mills Act which was adopted by Congress in August, 1960.

The Kerr-Mills Act provides for increased federal matching grants for existing old age assistance programs and provides federal funds, on a matching basis, but unlimited in amount, for new medical assistance for the aged programs. The medical assistance for the aged (MAA) is designed to help those persons whose incomes are too high to qualify them for old age assistance (OAA) but insufficient to cover their medical expenses. In reporting the bill, the Senate Finance Committee declared the plan was reasonable and workable and said further that it carried financial incentives which should enable every state to improve and extend medical services to aged persons.

Congressional Quarterly, an independent research organization, has made a study of the effects of the Kerr-Mills Act for the six-months period after the bill went into effect, the period from October, 1960 to March, 1961. It has compared the expenditures of 50 states and four territories for old age assistance during that period with their expenditures during the same period a year earlier. It finds that 19 jurisdictions increased their old age assistance spending by $45 million. Thirty-four states and Puerto Rico spent $35.9 million less on OAA than in the comparable period a year earlier. Thus there was a net reduction of state spending of $31.4 million for OAA. Only six states initiated the medical aid to the aged program and of these only five reported to Congressional Quarterly. The five spent approximately $9 million under this program so that the total reduction in state spending under the Kerr-Mills Act is actually $22,404,130. However, it should be noted that three of the states which utilized the MAA provision actually spent $6.4 million less on medical aid to the aged and old age assistance combined in the first six months of the Kerr-Mills legislation than they had spent on OAA alone in a comparable period the previous year. This savings was possible because the Kerr-Mills Act provided additional federal funds for old age assistance. It was possible for states with extensive assistance programs to maintain their regular OAA work and at the same time receive more federal money. Thus they could reduce their own contribution. In actual practice, the over-all program levels were increased in several of the states after implementation of the Kerr-Mills provisions but increase was comparatively small nationwide and in general there was a saving of state money.

Since only six states have made comprehensive use of the services offered under medical aid to the aged program, there is a belief among supporters of the administration program that the Kerr-Mills Act fails to meet the long range legislative intent of this program. Sen. Pat McNamara, D - Mich., committee chairman, has said there is a need to make the Kerr-Mills program "a supplemental kind of program" under a system of "basic health benefits to all aged, financed by an increase in the Social Security payroll deductions."

The opponents of the administration bill are fighting hard for a longer trial of the Kerr-Mills Act before it is put aside. It is pointed out that in addition to the six states previously mentioned as having the program in effect, seven others implemented the program as of July 1, 1961. Twelve others have plans for implementation of the program during 1961 or 1962. While only 10,229 persons actually received MAA assistance during the first six months of the program there are indications that 3,304,963 will be eligible under programs which have been implemented or will be implemented in 1961 and 1962.

It's a pretty good guess that the Kerr-Mills law has not had strong support from the Health and Welfare Department under the Kennedy administration or from Democratic governors around the country. In fact, it is quite astonishing that the law has had such favorable results in the face of the total lack of enthusiasm for it shown in high places of government.

Cooperation

When an opposing political party takes over in the White House there seldom is much cordiality between the new and old occupants. The ill-feeling between ex-Presidents Truman and Eisenhower was apparent even on inauguration day.

But President Kennedy has made sincere and successful efforts to seek from Mr. Eisenhower the advice and ideas born of experience. As he sought out Gen. MacArthur, he has sought out Mr. Eisenhower who has responded with offers and evidence of assistance.

President Kennedy contacted Mr. Eisenhower before he went off to talk with President De Gaulle and Premier Khrushchev. He invited the ex-president to visit with President Ayub of Pakistan. His aides have taken his ideas and plans to meet the current Berlin crisis to Mr. Eisenhower at Gettysburg. And Mr. Eisenhower has publicly requested national solidarity in our foreign policy.

Our 2-party system probably is essential to our brand of democracy. The philosophical and practical differences between the parties should not be soft-pedaled. But the efforts of two men of integrity to pool their ideas and experiences when the nation is in grave danger is heartening. It reflects the success of our system. It builds confidence for other days of crisis — and there will be many.

In the first fight at Bull's Run, a Mississippi soldier, Brigadier Quartermaster Pryor, editor of the Mississippi Eagle and cousin to Roger A. Pryor was taken prisoner by Hasbrouck of Capt. Bouch's company.

The rebel was captured with his horse as he had by accident ridden into our lines. "We are getting badly cut to pieces," the Southerner said to the Wisconsin soldier.

"What regiment do you belong to," asked Hasbrouck. "The 18th Mississippi," was the answer. "Then you are my prisoner," replied Hasbrouck.

Rocking chairs can tranquilize you better than some of our most modern and expensive pills. A ten-minute rock is as good as a ten-minute car ride, especially if there's a utility pole awaiting on the curve. And it is fine for cracking nuts under the rocker if the head of the house (the wife) is not looking.

BY OLIVER JENSEN

The aide-de-camp strode into the painting room and handed a message to Gen. Washington, who was sitting for his portrait. "Ah," he remarked after a mere glance. "Burgoyne is defeated." And then, supremely honoring his young friend the artist, that imperturbable man put aside the dispatch for later study and resumed the pose.

The painter, Charles Willson Peale, was well-known to him. Peale had taken his likeness at Mount Vernon in 1772, as a colonel of the Virginia Militia, and again in July, 1776. Peale had been Washington's fellow cam-

The man who painted George Washington from life most frequently was not only an exuberant artist, inventor, author, naturalist and museum founder, and a great one with ideas on such matters as child rearing and longevity, but the father and teacher of a whole brood of artists. Here the editor of American Heritage captures some of the joie de vivre of this Renaissance figure in the early days of the Republic.

paigner at Trenton, Princeton, and Germantown, a dutiful if not martial figure who carried both a musket and a palette. Before his public career was over, Washington was to be painted seven times from life by Peale, more times than by any other artist.

Peale was one of the universal men of the 18th century, a man whose talent and interests ran in a hundred different directions: inventor, mechanic, silversmith, watchmaker, politician and naturalist. His hands could make anything his brain devised, from moving pictures to a new type of bridge. He practiced every branch of the graphic arts and painted most of the heroes of the Revolution from life. He founded America's first public art gallery and its first museum of natural history, formed its first society of artists and led the first scientific expedition. Although he lived most of his life a few hurried paces ahead of the sheriff, he reared one of the world's happiest and most accomplished families. Under his instruction, dozens of his children and relatives learned to wield the brush.

Liked Publicity
Modest about his work at the easel, Peale also loved to shine, sending notices to the papers every time he launched a fresh project. He could even nominally be ascribed to the fact that the practicing politician has in so many instances lost confidence in the political awareness and the political punch of the doctors as an interest group.

Medical Doctors Fail in Political Responsibilities

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
MADISON — The American Medical Association, says an announcement prominently played in the nation's press, is about to launch a political action auxiliary.

What ever that development may mean in the tactical designs of the AMA which has had such a controversial role in the politics of the country lately, the politicians of Wisconsin are not likely to hold their breaths waiting for the execution of the design in local terms.

For the practicing medical men of Wisconsin have been as reluctant and indifferent as normal political activity as any organization with a direct stake in political and governmental policy that can be named. Some of their present political wor-

Washington's Favorite Painter

This Heroic Washington, the head a little small for the robust 6-foot, 3-inch frame but thought to be accurate, was painted by Charles Peale in 1779. ate himself for the office of postmaster general of the U.S., explaining to the startled President Washington that this would be a good way of subsidizing the arts and sciences.

Everything that Peale undertook began in a burst of optimism. Whether it was his apple-paring machine or his new museum, he was sure that it would revolutionize some aspect of life and expound the unity of science, art, and morality, and the glory of God and Nature.

Peale's own family was not the least extraordinary of his creations. He dug into a dictionary of names of classic painters and gave his sons names like Raphaelle, Rembrandt, Titian, and Vandyke. Female artists were harder to unearth, and on two of his little girls he inflicted the jaw-breaking names of Angelica Kaufmann and Sophonisba Anguiciola.

Full House

Altogether, over 40 years the virile Peale sired 17 children, not counting an 18th who was lost in the childhood death of his second wife. The household included not only his own children, but those of his brother and sister, together with various transients black, white and American Indian. There also were live bears, birds, snakes, an elk, a five-legged cow with two tails, a gift to the museum which provided apparently normal dairy products for the household.

It was a house full of paints and brushes and of music, for nearly everyone sang and played some instrument. Peale could manufacture a fiddle or xylophone or whatever was required. The place reeked of chemical experiment. The head of the family not only made shoes and eyeglasses but also, to the embarrassment of his more socially ambitious children, liked to manufacture false teeth for himself and his friends.

This jack-of-all trades cherished throughout life a number of unorthodox ideas, some of them since justified in the course of history. He kept most of the blood-letting doctors of the day away from his house. He ate sparingly, avoided liquor and tobacco, and set great store by exercise, proper posture and a few purgatives which he liked to press on friends. To all his children he was an indulgent, impartial father. He entertained a high opinion, for the times, of the capabilities of women. Several of his daughters and nieces succeeded as artists and one Sarah Miriam Peale hung out her shingle as the first American woman painter with a full-scale professional career.

Some of his notions, however, have still not won any general acceptance. He believed that the normal span of a man's life, provided he lived properly and wore loose-fitting garments, should be 200 years, a figure he later revised to 112. Sharing with the fiercest Whigs a deep faith in the natural rights and equality of all men, he carried the reasoning a step further to conclude there was no such thing as "inborn" talent. An intelligent man who applied himself could learn to be an artist, and as if to prove his point, Peale set out to teach his children and nearly all his other relatives the art of painting.

Incredible at 86

Outrageous and improbable as these theories are, Peale nearly succeeded in proving both of them. He was never so skilled with the brush as in his seventies and eighties. That he did not live to be 112 indicates no fault in the theory but simply foolishness on his part. In the middle of the winter of 1827 he carried a trunk on his back for a whole mile along a wood path just to save a little time. He was 86 at the time and out courting a prospective fourth wife. Even then he survived the heartstrain for several months.

Death found him studying his own failing pulse.

Most of the family Peale instructed in art became good amateurs and at least six of them skilled professionals.

Everyone Painted

His son Rembrandt, the most successful was a master of portraiture who sold endless copies of the only Washington he ever painted from life, as a 17-year-old boy. With his brother Raphaelle he ran his own Peales' Museum in Baltimore.

This is Charles Willson Peale in a self-portrait. It shows him smiling and pleased over his new hat indicating he was captain in the Revolutionary militia. (Courtesy American Philosophical Society, Philadelphia).

year by one house of the legislature as a kind of oblique testimony to these practical politicians about the political indifference of the doctors, and their resentment of it.

It also may be a hint that the politicians on the firing line are so selective in their political interests. When the issue of government medicine arises, the doctors excitedly denounce it and comb their neighborhoods for allies. The rest of the year they are above and beyond the fight that involves all citizens, by definition. The AMA political action experiment may be another example of this selectivity. The politicians will be watching skeptically.

Surgery, 'Freezing,' X-Rays Best for Removing Warts

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.
"Dear Dr. Molner: I have a woman friend who has a wart on the end of her nose."

"Some years ago I had a wart on a finger. I moistened it several times a day with Burrow's solution. In two or three months it vanished."

"This is an old standard remedy."

"About the same time I cut a wart off my chest with a razor and the stump of the wart still remains. To speed up relief, could the woman I mentioned cut off the wart with a razor and then get rid of the stump with Burrow's solution?" — John.

There must be as many "wart remedies" as there are "cold cures." If any single remedy proved to be reliable, all warts would disappear. And they haven't.

Warts Disappear
The fact, fortunate or unfortunate, is that most warts disappear eventually, no matter what one does or doesn't do. It's fortunate that the warts go away. It's unfortunate that warts are likely to disappear in the course of some treatment. That's the law of averages at work.

When this happens, the proud ex-owner of the warts is absolutely positive that he has found the remedy. It's been going on like that for years, maybe centuries — putting a penny, or sliced potato, or half a fresh-killed chicken, or all sorts of folklore remedies have been urged as sure cures.

Slicing off a wart with a razor is not an accepted treatment and neither is the use of Burrow's solution, although I have heard both of these mentioned many times. For casual use, I guess I prefer the penny — because it's simple and harmless and you get the wart off and don't run any risk of infection and you don't even waste any potatoes.

But if it is really important to get rid of a wart, and having one on the end of the nose is a good reason for doing so, I'd recommend one of the following: Surgical removal with sterile instruments, which is quick, simple and not likely to leave a noticeable scar, freezing with carbon dioxide "snow" or, in some selected cases, the use of X-ray.

While warts aren't a serious problem (they apparently are the result of some virus which has not been identified) there are cases in which a supposed "wart" is really something else. For the most serious possibility, which sometimes occurs in older people, a "wart" or horny growth can be a cancerous lesion which, however, can be readily and successfully removed.

For this embarrassing wart on the nose, I recommend, first, examination to be sure that it is a wart and not something else; after that, removal by one of the methods which medical experience has shown to be reliable.

(For occasional warts on a youngster's hand, I recommend ignoring 'em.)

"Dear Dr. Molner: Is there any connection between sinus troubles and allergy?" — Mrs. B.M.J.

Yes. From either cause, the membranes or linings of the nose and sinuses become thickened, and there are increased discharges from these membranes. One type of trouble reinforces the other. If you help one you help the other.

To my St. Louis friend The Nu-Voice Club is another new and good member of the group devoted to teaching speech again to those who have had the larynx removed. I wish I could mention specifically all the related clubs that are doing the good work so well.

"Vitamin starvation" is possible even if you eat a lot. In order to check your diet to make sure you are getting necessary nourishment, write to Dr. Molner in care of this newspaper for a copy of his pamphlet, "Vitamins — The Alphabet of Health."

Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and five cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Machine '9', Post Office Win Makeup Games

Appleton Machine Company beat Interlake No. 2 in a makeup game in the International Industrial Softball League Thursday, 16-7.

Roger Sprangers slashed two homers, a triple and two singles and was the winning pitcher, striking out twelve.

Post Office beat Coated Paper, 14-5, in a makeup game in the American Industrial League. Bill Brandt was Post Office's hitting star with two home runs and two singles in five trips. Post Office tallied nineteen hits, scoring at least twice in every inning. Dick Melcher was the winning pitcher.

TOKYO (AP) — Tom Stock of the University of Indiana belted his own world's record in the men's 200-meter backstroke Saturday with a time of 2 minutes, 14-seconds flat in the Japan swimming championships.

Stock, 19, led all the way and finished his race five meters ahead of Shigeo Fukushima of Japan's Nihon University. Fukushima's time was 2:19.8, a new Japanese record.

The recognized world's record in the event—2:16—was set by Stock July 24, 1960, at Toledo, Ohio. Since then, he has swum the event in 2:15.1, a mark up for recognition as a world's record which was eclipsed by Saturday's sensational performance.

Simms Traded To Pittsburgh

WESTMINSTER, Md. (AP) — The National Football League Baltimore Colts Friday traded rookie offensive end candidate E. A. Sims of New Mexico State to the Pittsburgh Steelers for a future draft choice.

The 6-2, 215-pound Sims, 24, reported four days late to the Colts' training camp here. Sims made the trip from his Abilene, Tex., home to Westminster by bus, shunning the airlines.

Abdeen Defeated By St. Cloud but Loses No Ground

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Aberdeen Pheasants, although dropping a 4-3 decision to St. Cloud, kept their five-game lead atop the Northern League Friday night when Grand Forks whipped runnerup Duluth-Superior 7-5.

In the night's third contest the Eau Claire Braves subdued to Winnipeg Goldeyes 7-2.

Lou Brock walked and stole second with two out in the bottom of the ninth inning when Frank Demoss sent him home with the game-winning single for St. Cloud.

Duluth-Superior had bunched two hits, two walks, an error, fielder's choice and sacrifice fly for four runs and a 5-5 tie in the bottom of the seventh. But the joy of 1,020 fans was shortlived as Grand Forks' Don Nipp opened the eighth with the homer that would have been enough to clinch things for the Chiefs.

Reds Maintain 1-Game Lead Over Dodgers

Robinson Homers Twice in 4-3 Victory Over Cubs

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Frank Robinson continued to put on a one-man show for Cincinnati, driving in three runs with his 31st and 32nd home runs Friday as the Reds maintained their one-game lead over the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Johnny Podres, star of the Dodgers' first world series victory in 1955, boosted his season record to 13-2, tops in the league in percentage, by beating Pittsburgh 6-4. Podres needed ninth-inning help from Dick Farrell.

It was the Dodgers' sixth straight on their Eastern tour and Podres' fifth victory in a row as they continued to apply pressure to the Reds.

Post Homers

Frank Robinson hit home runs No. 31 and No. 32 and drove in three Cincinnati runs in a 4-3 triumph over the Chicago Cubs. Wally Post's homer accounted for the other run in Jim O'Toole's 10th victory at the expense of Dick Ellsworth.

Larry Jackson pitched St. Louis to a 6-2 decision over Milwaukee with the help of light-hitting Bob Lillis.

San Francisco scored five in the seventh inning to beat Philadelphia in the first game 8-5, but the Phils won the second 4-3 on Bob Malkmus' seventh-inning homer.

Podres gave up only one hit in the first six innings and didn't allow a Pirate to reach second until Dick Stuart hit his 15th homer in the seventh with a man on base. Duke Snider and Willie Davis hit consecutive homers off relief man Roy Face in the ninth, long after loser Earl Francis had departed.

Provides Muscle

Robinson provided the muscle for the Reds. When O'Toole ran into trouble in the ninth, Bill Henry bailed him out after Jim Brosnan failed Henry took over with men on first and third and one out. He struck out Ed Bouchee and made pinch hitter Sam Taylor foul out.

Lillis drove in three runs with a pair of singles while Jackson won his sixth over rookie Bob Hendley.

Dom Zanni grabbed his first major league victory on relief in the Giants' first game at Philadelphia. Malkmus' homer enabled Johnny Burchard to win his third for the Phils with a five-hitter in the second game.

Larson, Gage Meet For State Crown

Marty Gharritty, Maj. Fred Mosley Lose Out in Semi-Final Round

GREEN BAY — With the tension as heavy as the humidity that hung over Oneida Golf and Riding Club's pressure-packed afternoon Friday, young Gaby Larson and dogged Fred Gage fought, scrambled and battled their way into the finals of the state amateur golf tournament.

In its 59 previous years, the tournament failed to produce a drama as well-scripted as this one has been. Larson, 2-down with only two holes to play, fired his way back to halve his match against tourney-tested Maj. Fred Mosley in the regulation 36 holes and then beat the air force veteran with a 15-foot putt on the 38th hole.

Gage trailed by as much as five holes with 14 left to play before getting a second breath and blistering his way back to a tie and then a win on the 37th hole over Shawano's Marty Gharritty.

Sudden Death

These two victors in the first double sudden death tourney semi-final history are meeting today in a 36-hole match to decide the successor to Green Bay's Steve Smith.

In the junior division Ray Seefeld Jr., Green Bay's last hope for tourney glory, bowed to Waterford's Ricky Swift, 3-1, while Ralph Schlicht Madison whipped Milwaukee's Phil Johnson 6-5.

Larry Napp Will Head Umpires For All-Star Game

NEW YORK (AP)—Larry Napp, veteran American League umpire, will be behind the plate in the All-Star baseball game at Boston's Fenway Park on Monday.

Commissioner Ford Frick announced today.

Frank Secory of the National League will be at first base; John Court to order the owners of 54 percent of the stock in the White, Ed Sudol of the NL, at third, Al Sox to sell the stock to him and Smith of the AL and Chris Pele, the syndicate he represents for, koudas of the NL will work on the outfield foul lines.

Frick named Ed Rumill of the Christian Science Monitor, president of the Baseball Writers Association, Joe Cashman of the Boston Record and Ray Kelly of the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin as scorers.

No one else was close. The other players of the field of 166 were fortunate enough to get in before the heavy rains developed.

The luck of the elements was first against, then with Palmer Friday, when a cloudburst halted the second round. Before then it looked as if lanky Art Wall had shaken off all but two or three holes after recording a six-hole total of 137. Par is 72.

Palmer, who had a first round of 73, was washed away. Palmer, scheduled to tee off at 1:55 with Gary Loe, was washed away.

Foxes Down Demons, 6-4, For Fifth Straight Triumph

Vineyard Homers, Earns Win With Relief Help From Puleo; Clubs Play Twin Bill Tonight

BY RALPH MUELLER

The Fox Cities Foxes reeled off their fifth straight victory Friday night, turning back the Des Moines Demons, 6-4, at Goodland Field.

The local professionals will attempt to snatch another pair before the home folk tonight, when they meet the Demons in a double-header starting at 6:30 p.m. Johnny Ellen and Dave McNally are slated to go to the mound for the Foxes while the probable pitchers for Des Moines are Aubrey Gatewood and Jess Hickman.

Friday's game began as a fast-moving pitchers' duel but dragged in the final frames when Des Moines chopped away at the Foxes' 6-run lead. Joe Puleo, however, slammed the door on the Demons in the bottom of the eighth, to preserve Dave Vineyard's fifth victory of the season.

Began to Tire

Vineyard had a shutout until the seventh when he walked rookie John Mustion and allowed singles to Carl Derr and another rookie, Phil Hips. The lanky right hander began to tire in the eighth when Irv Clark opened with a single, moved to second on a wild pitch, and scored on Bob Spicer's bad-hop single off Dick Yench's check.

Manager Earl Weaver wasted little time in hustling the diminutive Puleo into the game after Mustion pulled an inside pitch over the left field wall to reduce the count to 6-4. Puleo retired the last four men in order.

Before leaving the game, Vineyard virtually announced a challenge to Dave McNally for the club's "slugging" crown. Vineyard poked one long and high over the left center field fence, in the third, to give the locals a 3-0 advantage.

Wild Pitch

Joe Pulliam's single and Chuck Smiley's double accounted for the first inning marker. A single by Sam Owens and a wild pitch accounted for another run in the fourth.

Bowens took Vineyard's cue in the sixth when he followed Chuck Smiley's single with a long home run down the left field line. A walk to Yench, a single to right by Pulliam, and an infield grounder by Phil Anthony brought in the final marker.

Teen-Ager Wins Sewing Award

A 14-year-old Virgil, S. D. girl capitalized on cross stitch embroidery to cop the National Grange's top award in a national sewing contest. The event closed place in New York this month.

High school sophomore, Janette Haugen, impressed the judges with a home sewn green-and-white gingham dress. Miss Haugen's workmanship was brought into sharp focus in an original cross stitch design which she applied to the putted sleeves and skirt bottom. The border design includes a band of drawn thread work braided with several strands of embroidery floss. Contest judges named Miss Haugen's entry "Best of Show". Her prize is a trip to Bermuda for two.

Miss Haugen, whose future plans include a career in fashion design, demonstrated what the judges called "flair and imagination."

Blonde Named Marcia Frets About Solar Winds

BY GAYLE MOSS
PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Marcia, 28. She looks like a well-scrubbed, freckle-faced college freshman. But she's a senior scientist who is among the key personnel responsible for Ranger's complex machinery.

One of the instrument assemblies aboard is called an electrostatic analyzer. One of its jobs is to probe solar winds.

That's where Marcia Neugebauer comes in.

"I'm a co-experimenter with the electrostatic analyzer," says Marcia. She looks like a well-scrubbed, freckle-faced college freshman. But she's a senior scientist who is among the key personnel responsible for Ranger's complex machinery.

Marcia works at the California Institute of Technology's Jet Propulsion Laboratory here. She is in charge of coordinating the various experiments being performed by instruments on Ranger.

"I'm the only one that worries about the scientific aspects all together," she said.

She said it's up to her division — the division of the space sciences at JPL — to determine where the scientific instruments are placed in the spacecraft and how often a reading is taken from each.

Master's Degree
Marcia received a bachelor of arts degree in physics from Cornell University in 1954 and master of science degree, also in physics, from the University of Illinois two years later.

She is married to Dr. Gerry Neugebauer, 28, JPL project scientist for Mariner B, a proposed 1964 unmanned expedition to Mars. The couple, who met at Cornell and have been married for five years, lives in Altadena.

Marcia said she and her husband do not work on the same projects.

"They try to keep us separated; it's a matter of policy," she said.

There are only seven other women scientists or engineers working among the 852 men at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory.

Oshkosh Setting for Nuptial Rite

The Rev. James Vinex of St. Mary Catholic Church, Oshkosh, officiated at the 10 a.m. marriage today of Miss Joyce Anne Bahr, 650 Board St., and Paul Anthony Murphy, 1412 W. Ninth Ave., both of Oshkosh. Parents of the bride are Ewald Bahr and Mrs. Mrs. Lawrence A. Murphy.

The bride was given in marriage at the double ring ceremony by her brother, Douglas Bahr.

Mrs. Joseph Stratz Jr. was matron of honor. Two sisters of the bride, Mrs. Robert Jensen and Mrs. Patricia Beiser, served as bridesmaids. Dawn Beiser, niece of the bride, was flower girl.

Lt. Russell F. Stauffer, Little Rock, Ark., Air Force Base, was best man. Ushering duties were shared by Charles W. Zemlock Jr. and Allen J. Hable.

A dinner at Knights of Columbus Club was served at noon. A reception will be there tonight.

The bride and bridegroom are graduates of Oshkosh High School. The bride is employed in the Oshkosh B' Gosh, Inc., office. Her bridegroom, a graduate of Wisconsin State College, Oshkosh, is a teacher in the Clintonville Public Schools.

When they return from a wedding trip to northern Wisconsin, Mr. and Mrs. Murphy will live in Clintonville.

Miss International Beauty of 1962, left, Miss Stanny Van Baer of Holland, poses with Miss Brazil, Vera Marie Brauner, one of the runners-up, at the completion of the Miss International Congress in Long Beach, Calif., Friday evening. Fifty-two beauties competed in the affair.

PET DOCTOR

By A. W. Moller, D.V.M.

Q. Is it true that cats can't eat vegetables? I fed my cat peas and carrots and it made her vomit. Why? Angela Kartoskewitz, Brooklyn, N.Y.

A. Vegetables make little girls pretty and little boys strong, but I don't think they do too much for our feline friends. In the wild state, cats lived on a diet of meat alone. They always supplemented this diet by chewing on, and possibly eating, some grasses and herbs. Their digestive system can not extract the nourishment from vegetables very well. When faced with the job of digesting a large amount, like those peas and carrots, it may break down and expel the food. This is why your pet vomited. If he wants a few vegetables, fine, but keep it to a few. You eat the rest, and your eyes will sparkle.

(Address your question to Dr. Moller in care of this paper. He will answer selected inquiries in his column, but cannot reply to them.)

Native of Holland Named Miss International Beauty

BY BOB BARNES
LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—A sparkling brown-eyed charmer from Holland—much to her surprise — is Miss International Beauty of 1962.

The honor left the winner, Stanny van Baer, 19, of Amsterdam completely amazed Friday night at the International Beauty Congress.

"What can I say?" cried the dewy-eyed queen as cameras flashed in the crush of photographers following her triumph. "I didn't expect it—I'm so happy."

Fashion Model
She is a fashion model and aspiring actress. Her little Dutch girl costume had won the points of the judges and the applause of the audience.

She had caught the judges' eyes from the start, a week ago. She won a citation in the playsuit division—which in this contest takes the place of a bathing suit competition—and then was named the most photogenic of the 52 entrants.

Second was Brazil's entry, Vera Marie Brauner, 19, a student teacher at Pelotas.

Other finalists finished in this order: Miss Spain, 18, Carmen Cervera; Miss Canada, 20, Edna MacVicar, and Miss Iceland, 18, Signur Ragnarsdottir.

Miss Holland succeeds Stella Marquez of Colombia. The lovely winner, who will represent the pageant during the year, will receive $10,000 cash.

Speaks English
She weighs 114 pounds, is 5-foot-6 and measures 35-23 1/2-36. She speaks English, German and her native dialect, Hongos and attends the Modern School of Art in Amsterdam.

Not finishing among the final five was Miss Paraguay, a brunette who captivated her listeners with an impromptu speech studied with chuckles and threatening to continue in commented, "You American men definitely. The Paraguayan representative, Gladys Fernandez, need an increased population."

The Ailing House Leak Seen During Hard Rain

BY ROGER C. WHITMAN
RAIN THROUGH WINDOW

Q: I have a 12' picture window, with two vertical bars and two horizontal bars, dividing it into 9 panes of unequal size. In driving rain, water invariably comes through, forms puddles on the horizontal bars, trickling down the vertical bars. Outside windows have been puttied and re-caulked by the glazier to no avail. What might be done to remedy situation short of installing storm windows?

A: You don't state whether the frame and bars are metal or wood. For metal windows there are two kinds of metal sash putty, for interior and exterior use; the interior should never be used outside of windows.

The glazier may have omitted applying a coat of priming paint before puttied or caulking; on metal surfaces this provides a roughened surface for better adhesion. And after the putty, or caulking or glazing compound has dried, paint should be applied to seal and protect. For a good tight water seal, the paint should be lapped slightly over on the glass and the same number of coats applied as are on the window frame.

CANDLE ENDS
Q: The candles I use on my dining table have completely burned down. How can I remove the candle ends from the metal holders?

A: Immerse the part of the candle ends in very hot water until the wax has softened, then wipe out the wax with soft tissue or paper towels.

PLAYROOM FLOOR COVERING
Q: We are shortly moving into our own home. We prefer wood floors in bedrooms, but have two growing children and wonder if there is any kind of floor covering, other than linoleum-type rugs, that we could use in their bedroom to protect the wood floor and be easy to clean?

A: A new type of floor covering, rotovynil, is now available which is usually not put down with an adhesive, but just rolled out. It is a several-layered clear vinyl over a photographically reproduced design and is available in rolls up to 12' wide, in a wide variety of colors and patterns.

Your Problems

Son Loves to Bring Pets Home, But Doesn't Take Care of Them

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our 11-year-old son is crazy about anything that walks, crawls or flies. He brings home stray cats, fallen birds, anything that looks more alive than dead.

At this writing we have three stray cats in the basement, a cocker spaniel and one plain dog. We also have a pet skunk (which has been operated on) an owl with an injured wing, two turtles, a tank of fish and a squirrel.

I think it's fine that he loves pets, but I'm the one who has to take care of them. Once he brings them home his interest wanes. Also, the cost of feeding this menagerie is no small item. My husband says I should not interfere with the boy's tender emotions. I need help — X-hausted.

DEAR X: Being soft-hearted is in itself no virtue. Just dragging home animals is easy. Caring for them and being willing to sacrifice part of the weekly allowance to help feed the pets demonstrates genuine unselfishness.

Too often kids who claim to be animal lovers merely love to bring the animals home and unload the responsibility on Mom. Mom should refuse to accept it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Your advice was rotten to that poor kid who had a baby out of wedlock. She asked if it was O. K. to wear a white gown and have her 3-year-old daughter as a flower girl.

Just because the girl made a small error is no reason she should pay for it for the rest of her life. I think it would be cute to have the little girl in the wedding. After all, why should she hide her head in the sand? Everyone who knows the family knows the whole story.

I hope the maiden ignores your advice and doesn't allow you to spoil the dream that all young girls have—No Spook!

DEAR SPOOK: A girl who has had a child out of wedlock is no "maiden," so forget about "spoiling her dream." And why don't you wake up, too?

If she is foolish enough to have a white wedding and allow her daughter to be the flower girl she will invite richly decorated, an aspiring concert pianist, seemed more at ease before the microphone the longer she stayed there.

She noted that her country had seven women for every man and in a time, to continue in commented, "You American men definitely. The Paraguayan representative, Gladys Fernandez, need an increased population."

served ridicule. No child should be present at the first wedding of a parent. In fact, the less said about it the better.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: If you tell me I'm cuckoo I'll stop complaining—but here's my story: I'm 44, my husband is the same age and we have four good teen-agers. My husband is hard-working, doesn't drink, gamble or go anywhere without me. We're all in good health and we get along fine. Our home is comfortable, but the mortgage is still with us. Everything else big is paid for but it seems as soon as we pay off one bill, two others crop up. We're not in need of anything, but it would be grand to have some extras.

Something is missing from my life. I feel a certain emptiness. It's just sort of blah. Nothing exciting seems to happen to me. What's my problem?—Same Ol' Me

DEAR SAME: Your problem is you have no problems. I hear from thousands of people who wish things would quit happening to them.

A woman who has a fine husband, four nice children, good health and no major worries has a great deal to be thankful for. Count your blessings—and take it from me, Lady, that "emptiness" is in your head.

Are you tempted to smoke because the crowd does? If so, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Teen-age Smoking," enclosing with your request 10 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed stamped envelope. Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Don't Chase Good Luck When Playing Bridge

The best way to improve your results at bridge is to take on pulled the boner all by himself, more responsibility. If you blame yourself silently and thoughtfully for almost everything that goes wrong, you may be able to prevent things from going wrong the same way in the future.

Most people prefer to rely on Imagination is an asset: day-dreaming, a waste of time. The difference shows up in bridge hands, too.

West opened the three of hearts, and East won with the ten. It was obvious to East that his partner had led a singleton. He knew he could rely on getting two hearts and the ace of diamonds. One other trick was needed to defeat the contract.

"What do I need from my partner to get one additional trick?" East wondered. And he hit upon the idea of playing West for J-x on sidewalk cracks when he sets of trumps.

With this idea in mind, East who knocks on wood hastily if continued with the queen and then you call attention to his good the ace of hearts. If West had luck. They believe in their personal luck, and they do these odd things to get the luck or stop it by being put in over-ruff position, from leaving.

Others try to catch up with luck by noticing which way the cards are running. One day a with the ace of trumps and drew wag printed this notice on the trumps with the king, queen and bulletin board of a famous bridge jack. Then declarer overtook the club: "Saturday, June 1st. Tem-king of clubs with dummy's ace perature 79. Cards running and discarded all of the diamonds South except at able 4. Spades! on dummy's clubs to make the breaking bad. Conditions favorable for notrump."

Most of the players in the club West for a good trump holding, that day tried to sit North-South East could defeat the contract if even though they knew the notice West had any trump at all. East was a joke. Maybe there was something in it!

Comforting Approach
It's comforting to use this approach to bridge. If anything goes wrong, you don't have to work the ace of diamonds at the second for better bidding or more accurate. Then East returns the rate play: just try to plant your eight of hearts, forcing West to seat the way the cards are running.

In the long run you have the quite clear that East has all of same kind of cards no matter the high hearts. Why does he where you put your seat. You make West ruff a heart? can do better with those cards, by working with your head. partner wants a diamond return. If you get a poor result with This gives East a ruff for the a hand, look for your mistakes setting trick.

In bidding or play. When your, East's mistake was to count on partner has made the mistake, his partner for a lot when he try to recall whether you led him needed very little.

Britain Hikes Taxes, Stops Pay Boosts

Macmillan Plan Approved Even as Teachers Strike

LONDON (AP) — The British government's new austerity program cleared the hurdle of parliamentary approval Thursday night as expected but still faced the rising anger of wage earners today.

Prime Minister Harold Macmillan won an overwhelming vote of confidence in the House of Commons while groups of school-teachers, miners, engineers and telephone operators made plans to press for pay raises despite government pleas to hold the line.

Macmillan told Commons that the tax increases and other curbs on spending—felt in nearly every household in the land—are vital for the nation's prosperity.

Opposition Laborites shouted for his resignation. But the Conservative majority held together, beat down a censure motion and voted 346-236 to approve the government program.

In London, Bristol, Hertfordshire and Kent nearly 300 teachers at nine schools staged one-day strikes to protest government cancellation of a promised pay boost.

The National Association of Schoolmasters, representing 25,000 teachers, threatened to pull out hundreds of faculties when school resumes next fall if the government doesn't yield.

Miners assailed the government's plans and decided to press their claims for more pay and shorter hours.

Phone repairs, radio and television programs were threatened as post office engineers mapped plans for a nationwide three-week ban on overtime work to protest a deadlock on their pay claims.

Prices on the London Stock Exchange fell for a loss of millions of pounds. It was the market's worst tumble since 1957, when the government also jacked up the interest rate.

Quartet Visits City to Publicize 1961 State Fair

Four teen-age sisters from a 200-acre dairy farm near Loyal visited Appleton Friday morning to publicize Wisconsin State Fair Aug. 11 through 20 in West Allis. They presented a scroll to Postmaster Francis Sumnicht, representing the city, inviting residents of the Fox Cities to attend this year's 111th edition of the fair.

Billed as the Noel Sisters, the foursome, Carol, 19, Kristine, 17, Beatrice, 15, and Helen, 13, are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Noeldner. The girls have been singing together for six years.

Thursday they visited Sheboygan and Manitowish and Friday Oshkosh and Appleton. Today they are in Green Bay. Next week's schedule includes trips to Madison and towns in northern Illinois. In 1959 the quartet won a trip to competition among six United States and one Canadian singing groups at the Grand Old Opry and were runner-up in the finals.

Their western outfits, in keeping with the Roy Rogers show scheduled for the fair, are their own creation.

The Golden Years

To Loaf or Not to Loaf Proves Good Question

BY THOMAS COLLINS

Does a person have the moral right to loaf through retirement? Or, does he or she have an obligation to work at whatever can be had in order to contribute to his fellow man until the end?

Uncle Sam has sold a lot of four-cent stamps on this proposition since a man named McPherson said in this column that a retired person could not loaf it through. Here are some of the messages the stamps brought:

"Something like Mr. McPherson comes along occasionally and your faith in mankind gets a shot of tonic. A person turned out to idleness on a pension has no more right to waste away on it than he has to waste any other resource of nature. Pleasure and permanent ease were never promised to us in any book I ever read."

R.H.B., Tacoma, Wash.

"The Fellow Is Right"

"I think the fellow is right when he says we have no license to loaf a retirement through. I think, also, that it's not easy to do anything else, what with all the roadblocks they set up to stymie any worthwhile work by old folks past 65. I guess the thing to do is to try, and try again. Heaven will understand..."

H. W. J., Aniston, Ala.

"It seems that the Texas sun has got to your friend McPherson. Why doesn't he shut up and go fishing?"

W.C.B., Hartford, Conn.

"How wrong can people be? You work all your life, save your pennies, cling to your job because it's got a pension at the end of it, and you take your hat off every time you pass the Social Security office. Then you reach 65 and at long last you cash in. It's freedom and rest from here on. I don't owe nothing to nobody! I'm not about to assume I do. I'll loaf, thank you..."

K.R.B., St. Louis, Mo.

"Humanity Important Product"

"Somebody ought to fire the guy that let McPherson retire. They should have falsified his age and made him president of the company. Think what a slogan they could have had: 'Humanity Is Our Most Important Product'..."

C.R.T., Miami, Fla.

"My husband and I also believed we had no moral right to sit down and do nothing when he retired. But my husband knew how to be productive in only one small area, which was running an assembly line in a plant. And it is this kind of productivity they don't let you do after 65. We tried things, like the Welfare Society, the Community Chest and such other places that ask for volunteers. It's difficult to scratch an itch this way..."

"Since we are religious people who tithe for our church we decided that the thing we should do with retirement was to tithe our time. We figured our waking time from 8 in the morning to 10 at night. A tenth of it was about an hour and a half a day. This we gave to visiting people who needed visitors, to writing letters, to phoning the sick, to nursing ill neighbors, to whatever showed up. Up to Three Hours

"We are now up to about three hours a day. We are quite happy..."

Mrs. L.S.V., Newark, N.J.

"Mr. McPherson seemed concerned about other people working to produce his food while he loafed in retirement. I suggest he join up with some of the itinerant farm laborers from around the Rio

Our Children

Permissiveness Step To Youth's Maturing

BY ANGELO PATRI

For children to grow in self-reliance and self-control, it is necessary that they have opportunities to practice and develop these traits, which brings us to what is known as permissiveness. It recently has been brought to our attention by child experts.

Now, successful living for old into prominence by child experts or young call for common sense; and parents, eager to do every-thing, applied to the growth of children, means that the conditions at work at the moment must be late prominence, and out of con-temperance and valued. A child of fusion have sometimes overdone measure in a family of five children, it, by allowing the children to do what they pleased as they pleased, what they pleased. That is ample. A child of a high income not permissiveness; rather it is family and one of a moderate sta-harmful stupidity.

Children need parental guid-ment. And always the particular child in question must be consid-ered. Children require for the whole-ness of their growth of body and mind. This means that while parents feel that they may be sympathetic and kindly, they guilty of partiality, favoring one draw a line of behavior for each more than the other, but it is child. They say to him, "So far, not a matter of favor at all. It no farther, you may go," and is plain common sense that al-hold that line, extending it as low as one child to go on his own each child indicates his ability to and make his decision, while an-go a bit ahead on his own. other is held strictly to guidance. Permissiveness rightly used is Abilities, weaknesses, state of a wonderful stimulant to growth health, spiritual needs, all these and development. Wrongly used qualities are present in all the it is destructive in the extreme.

Menasha Student Killed in Mexico

Car Crash Takes Life of Student at Mexico University

MENASHA — A Menasha student, Gail Fitzpatrick, was killed in a car crash in Mexico City. She was on her way to her college campus.

Survivors are her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Fitzpatrick, and three brothers, Donald, Thomas and William.

Miss Fitzpatrick was in the National Honor Society in her junior and senior years at Menasha High and was historian of her Pi Beta Phi sorority chapter at the university.

Her father is manager of the Washington Street plant of Marathon Division of American Can Co. and former president of the Menasha Board of Education.

Gail Fitzpatrick

the auto's owner, whose name was not known by the Fitzpatrick family.

The crash occurred near the University of Mexico campus. The victims were returning with fellow students after an outing at Cuernavaca, Mexico. Miss Fitzpatrick was driving the car and failed to round a curve, the American embassy in Mexico said.

University Student Miss Fitzpatrick had completed two years at the University of Wisconsin and would have returned there in fall.

She was born Aug. 11, 1941 in Appleton and lived in Neenah and Menasha the last 15 years.

A memorial service will be held at 4 p.m. Wednesday in St. Timothy Lutheran Church, Menasha. The family has established a

Car, Tractor Damaged in Highway Crash

CHILTON — An automobile and a farm tractor were involved in a collision at 3:15 p.m. Thursday at an intersection of U.S. 10 and a Town of Harrison road about three miles west of Sherwood.

The auto driver, Marian M. Fisch, 21, route 2, Hilbert, told county police the tractor rammed the side of her car, which was westbound on 10. Earl Jahnke, 11, route 1, Menasha, who was driving the tractor, said foliage blocked his view of the highway. He failed to spot the car in time.

Neither driver was injured but damage to the vehicles was estimated at $400.

Neenah Man Pays $10 For Transporting Beer

CHILTON — James H. Girard, 17, 709 Fairview Ave., Neenah, was fined $10 and his driver's license suspended for 60 days by Justice Wilber Winch after Girard admitted transporting beer with minors under 18 in the vehicle.

Girard was arrested by Calumet County police July 20 in the Town of Harrison. He appeared before Winch on a juvenile court waiver.

Search on For Driver of Hit, Run Car

MENASHA — Miss Judith Ann Schultes, 19, 119 E. Wilson Ave., Appleton, was struck early today by a hit-run auto, touching off an area-wide search for the car.

Police were furnished a description of the car which ran the girl down at Racine and Broad Streets at 1:07 a.m. today. She is in good condition at Theda Clark Memorial Hospital, with bruises on her right leg and both arms. She also complained of stomach pains.

Miss Schultes was struck while crossing Broad Street with Gerald Frassetto, 29, 127 S. Maple St., Kimberly. The wanted car turned left off Racine Street and hit her. Another driver saw the car flee and unsuccessfully gave chase. Miss Schultes was thrown 34 feet by the car.

She was taken to the hospital by Brown Ambulance.

Ballplayer Wanted as Witness Isn't in Town — He Missed Bus

As Outagamie County Dist. Atty. Nick Schaefer feared, Des Moines Demon outfielder Rich Haines was not aboard when the team bus rolled into Appleton Friday afternoon. Schaefer wanted to subpoena Haines as his chief witness in a discrimination action brought against Carl Ziesemer, owner and operator of Carl's Tap, 523 W. College Ave.

Haines, the Three-I League's leading hitter, reportedly missed the bus, along with another Demon, Rich Edwards. Both players were expected to join the club today or Sunday.

Haines told Appleton police that Ziesemer waved a black-jack and ordered him out of Carl's Tap May 31. John Self, the Des Moines' first baseman, also reported the incident, but he couldn't hit and was sent to another ball club. Schaefer's subpoena is meaningless outside of Wisconsin and Self probably can not be made to testify.

In a preliminary hearing Ziesemer denied the charge of discrimination. He will go on trial late in August.

Outagamie County Retail Business Continues Strong

Little Evidence of Change in Residents' Spending Pattern

Retail business in Outagamie lines were able to report solid County continued strong in the last gains for the year.

The results are contained in the annual survey made by the Standard Rate and Data Service. Its market reports to indicate that comprehensive figures, showing local residents changed their normal spending pattern to any appreciable extent.

On the contrary, some retail In Outagamie County, food was the principal item. Purchases in the local supermarkets, grocery stores, bakeries, butcher shops and the like amounted to $24,888,000 in the year, topping the 1959 volume of $23,088,000.

This was solely for take-home food. It did not include food that was consumed in restaurants, at lunch counters and at other eat-and-drink places.

Approximately 20 cents out of every dollar that was spent in the county's retail stores went in this direction.

Good Living The large amount that residents of Outagamie County devoted to food, in a year in which prices remained quite steady, is a sign of more luxurious living, according to the report.

If the total expenditures for food were to be spread uniformly throughout the county, each household would have a bill of $874 for the year.

The figures for most other retail lines also indicated strong consumer buying locally.

Transportation Sales Gross sales in stores selling automobiles, motorcycles, boats, trailers and accessories came to $21,533,000. This amounted to 17 cents of the retail dollar.

Department stores and variety stores handling general merchandise had a $16,983,000 volume, equal to 14 cents. Apparel shops, including clothing, hat and shoe stores, accounted for $6,689,000, or more than 5 cents. Those selling home furnishings had receipts of $6,940,000, for 6 cents.

Nationally, it is estimated, the recession cost retail merchants some $4.4 billion in sales because people spent less than they would have normally.

Neenah Host For Police Pistol Shoot

NEENAH — The Neenah Police Department will play host to policemen from the Fox River Valley area next Wednesday in one of a series of seven shoots being held by the Fox Valley Police Pistol League.

According to Capt. Lawrence Malouf, the shoot will be held at the Neenah Police Range on Highway 114, two miles west of Neenah.

Taking part will be policemen from Appleton, Fond du Lac, Oshkosh, Menasha, Manitowish, Two Rivers, Green Bay and Neenah.

Capt. Malouf announced that team and individual trophies for pistol shooting will be awarded during a dinner for all Fox Valley policemen and their wives at Manitowish Aug. 16.

St. Joseph Bands, Choir to Perform

The three school bands and men's choir under the direction of Francis Scholtz, of St. Joseph Catholic parish will present a concert in the school gym at 4 p.m. Sunday.

The concert concludes eight weeks of summer lessons and band practice. One of the bands is made up of children who began playing instruments this summer.

The men's choir will lead the audience in singing.

Square Dancing to be Held Once a Week

KAUKAUNA — Square dancing will be held once a week beginning Tuesday night, instead of three large dances in Clovis twice weekly as before, the recreation department has announced.

Classes will be held at 6 p.m. at a La Follette Park, with dancing beginning at 7:30.

2 From Lawrence Faculty to Attend Workshop Talks

Two Lawrence College faculty members, Richard Winslow of the Spanish department and Des-roc Lenard in Russian, will attend the second annual summer workshop in foreign languages and literature of the Associated Colleges of the Midwest from Aug. 7 to 25.

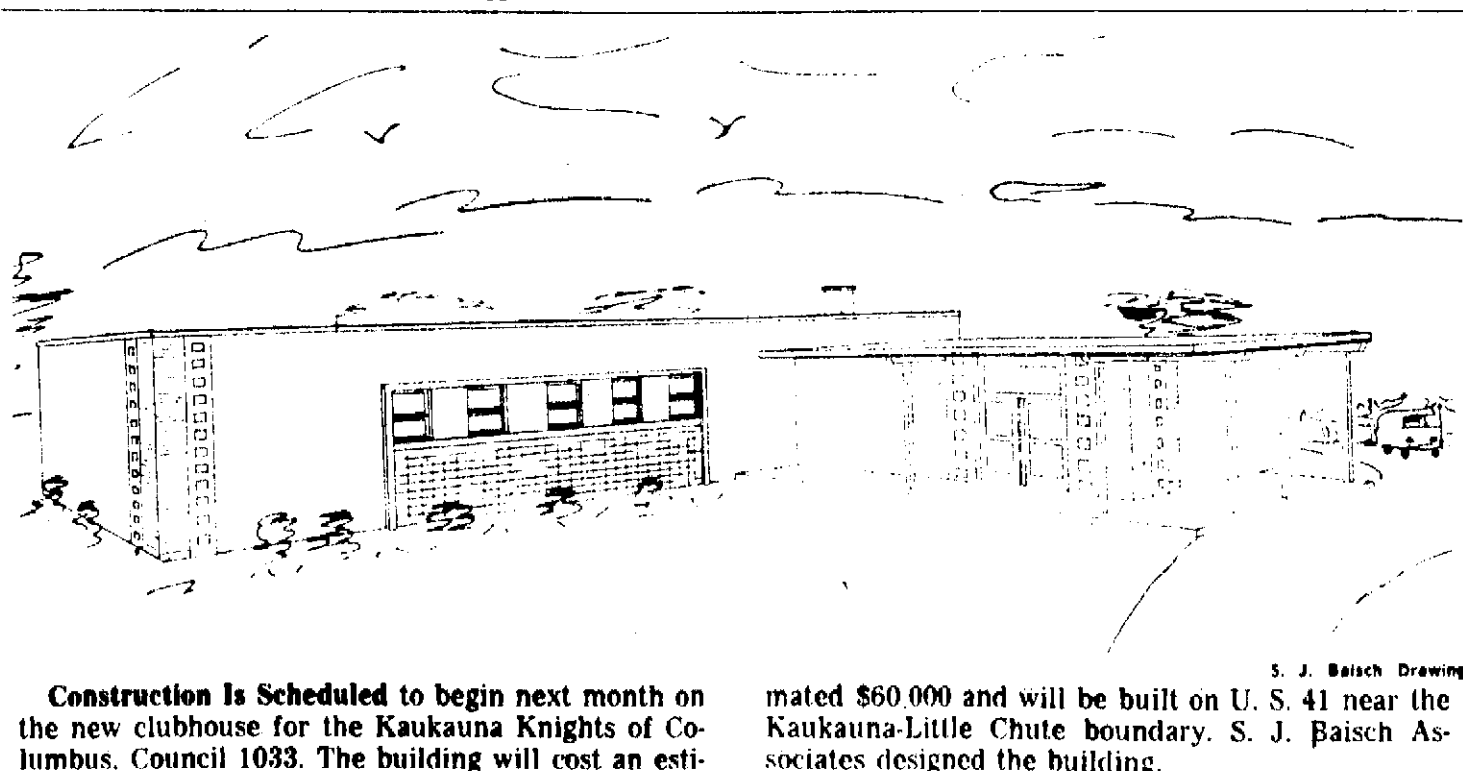

Purpose of the workshop is to plan future cooperative programs and to work on experiments and research grants conducted jointly by member colleges under a U.S. Steel Corporation grant and a three year $250,000 contract under the National Defense Education Act.

Successful Bidder Met Specifications

NEW LONDON — New London Board of Education did not accept the low bid of State Farm Mutual Insurance Co., on its low bid because State Farm did not meet specifications on medical coverage. State Farm bid $1,251.85 but offered only $1,000 medical coverage per person. Milwaukee Automobile Insurance Co., was the successful bidder on $1,275.08 but met the board's specifications of $2,000 per person medical coverage.

Youths and Parents Ordered to Court

MENASHA — Two Menasha boys, 10, and 14, have been ordered to appear with their parents at the police station for breaking three large windows in Clovis Grove School. The boys were arrested by Menasha police after bragging about how they broke the windows with marbles. The parents will be required to pay for the windows, police said.

Construction is scheduled to begin next month on the new clubhouse for the Kaukauna Knights of Columbus. Council 1033. The building will cost an estimated $60,000 and will be built on U. S. 41 near the Kaukauna-Little Chute boundary. S. J. Baisch Associates designed the building.

Lag Appears in Soviet Output Of Electronics

Industry Is Failing To Meet Goals

NEW YORK — Despite claims of great strides in electronics and automation, and ambitious plans for electronics output, word filtering through the Iron Curtain indicates there is a serious lag in this field.

Electronics Magazine states that Russia's electronic output is threatened by the failure of component production to maintain a pace needed to reach its goals.

Data coming from Russia indicate that original Soviet plans called for an annual production rate of 200 million electron tubes of all types to be reached by 1960.

Actual 1960 output, however, amounted to only 123 million units. By comparison, U. S. manufacturers' sales of receiving tubes alone have ranged between 400-480 million units a year since 1955.

With the historical devotion Soviet leaders have to the most rapid possible expansion of Russia's war potential, it seems a virtual certainty that every effort will be made to assure that at least the military electronics program does not falter, the magazine declares.

Semi-Conductor Industry Lagging While the USSR could bridge its electron tube gap by large-scale substitution of transistors and crystal diodes, there are growing indications the Russian semiconductor industry also is lagging substantially behind the needs of equipment makers.

At the recent all-Union conference of scientific workers in Moscow, the new president of the USSR Academy of Sciences, M. V. Keldysh, asked for greater miniaturization and reliability in radio electronics.

Keldysh also declared the supply of scientific instruments and equipment was unsatisfactory and that installations were not properly organized and utilized.

Lack of news on electronic output in the Russian press is an other indication of trouble in the industry. In contrast to a high degree of public optimism shown earlier the Soviet press has grown increasingly obscure in recent years, concerning current levels of semiconductor output, Electronics says.

The most recent information transistorized radio receivers are available relates to 1957 where, so only now beginning to trickle into viet industry produced about 20 million semiconductor elements of all types. U. S. output that year totaled 100 million units, including 29 million transistors and 71 million semiconductor diodes.

Avoided Publication Since the 1957 announcements, the USSR has studiously avoided the publication of hard figures on achieved levels of semiconductor output.

There appears to be some significance in the fact that late-model Russian electronic computers are still based on vacuum tubes; last year amounted to only 5.9 million units.

The growth of Soviet electronics production would most likely be reflected in those branches of the industry responsible for production of civilian equipment, the magazine points out, it might be noted that, in contrast to earlier Russian announcements scheduling an output of 10.2 million home radios and television sets in 1960, actual output is still based on vacuum tubes.

Chairman Emil Kuehl presided at the meeting. Others present were Jim Huffman, president of the Clintonville Association of Commerce; Amos Schulz, chairman of the council's airport committee; Roman Ritchie, station manager for North Central, and Mayor Louis Krueckenberg.

The survey shows that there are more than enough potential boarders in the two-county area surveyed, but that people and business men were not aware of the seriousness of the nature of the 150 minimum boardings required. Huffman said in all his visits in Shawano, he did not experience resentment that airport was in Clintonville.

Buttner outlined in detail the problems involved with airline sales management.

"Things are still in good shape at the present time," he said. The city must plan carefully for the future in projected plans for the airport. Going to other cities for boardings will not always answer the problem, he said.

Ritchie presented a detailed breakdown of the boardings for the first 24 days of July, which showed an upswing in boardings of Shawano area people. FWD still holds the predominant place in providing passengers with 47 boardings. Local people made up 41 flights and visitors totalled 25 during this time. Next in the number of boardings were New London, Bear Creek and Manawa, in that order.

Fond du Lac Annexes Area by Special Move

Action Completed Before Correction Can Be Made on Improper Injunction Service

FOND DU LAC — Fond du Lac "contiguous and homogeneous" city Council rushed through annexation of an industrial area south of the city before an allegedly improperly served injunction against the annexation could be corrected.

The area includes sites of Kiekhaefer Corp., International Paper Co. and Ralston Purina Co. branches.

The Town of Fond du Lac, Kickhaefer and International Paper per got a court injunction to delay the annexation. The order was served Wednesday noon on the secretary of the city attorney.

But City Atty. Frederick K. Foster said that to be valid, the order had to be served at the offices of the city manager or clerk.

Hurry Proposed Move The council first learned of the attempted legal action Wednesday night. Foster and City Manager Robert H. McManus urged the council to act on the proposed annexation before the error was detected and another court order served.

Thursday morning, a special session was called and the council gave final approval to the annexation ordinance. It became effective Thursday with publication in the local newspaper.

The state planning division has approved the annexation, saying it was "not against the public interest" and the area sought was contiguous and homogeneous with the municipality.

Town Industries Complain But the town and industries' complaint states that delineation of the territory proposed to be annexed is unreasonable because governmental services to the territory, including zoning, can clearly be better supplied by the town than by the city.

"The territory is not homogeneous with that of the city," the complaint says.

The plaintiffs ask the circuit court to declare all annexation proceedings void, that the city be enjoined and restrained from initiating annexation, that annexation of the territory be declared contrary to the public interest and that a judgment in accordance with the plaintiffs' demands be given.

The city manager said passage of the ordinance probably will keep the opponents from conducting a drawn-out affair.

Man Fined for Stealing Stamps KAUKAUNA—Lawrence Wheelock, Kaukauna, was fined $9.75 and was ordered to pay $12 restitution in Justice Court Friday.

Wheelock was arrested by city police July 24 after he was caught taking four books of trading stamps from the Red Owl store.

Security Agency Fires 26 as Sex Deviates WASHINGTON (AP)—The hush-hush National Security Agency says it has fired 26 alleged sex deviates and tightened its hiring procedures since the defection of two of its code clerks to Russia last summer.

This was disclosed yesterday by Rep. Francis E. Walter, D-Pa., chairman of the house committee on un-American activities, after NSA witnesses were questioned by the committee in a closed session.

Walter said Maurice H. Klein, NSA director of personnel, told the committee the 26 discharged were civilian employees of the secret defense agency. Names of all 26 were given to the committee but were not made public.

Klein said NSA hiring procedures had been tightened up considerably since the defection of Bernon F. Mitchell and William H. Martin last year, Walter related.

Performing Whale Dies in California PALOS VERDES, Calif. (AP)—One of Marineland's performing whales, Buttons, died Friday. She was 4.

She died of undetermined causes. A spokesman said she had eaten poorly for two days, but the death was unexpected.

Best known for her jumping ability, Buttons could leap 18 feet upward — twice her nine-foot length.

She was lured from the Catalina channel 15 months ago with promises of a six-show-a-day job. She quickly learned how to model bonnets, lift barbells and catch fish in the air.

Oh, the Moon Shines— And That Was All, Too

GIRARDVILLE, Pa. (AP)—The moon didn't shine bright in this tiny northeastern Pennsylvania community Thursday night but the street lights did once again.

The Pennsylvania Power and Light Co. turned on the 135 lights after having shut them off at 1 p.m. Monday. The pool will remain open from 1 to 8 p.m. daily under supervision of the recreation department.

A lifeguard will be on duty during the hours the pool is open. A fence is being raised around the pool.

Gravel Streets May Get Tack Coat Faster

New Policy Would Let Aldermen Make Work Requests Directly

Appleton aldermen won't have to go through the City Council and Street and Sanitation Committee to get dust tack coat put on gravel streets if a recommendation made by the committee Friday is approved.

The new policy would allow council members to go directly to the engineering and street departments to have the work done. The committee and council now routinely approve all requests in action taking two weeks or more. Property owners are assessed 16 cents a front foot for the dust tack coat on their streets.

The committee also approved construction of 210 feet of 18-inch storm sewer in the ravine east of Whiting Field to enable Lawrence College to fill the ravine.

Sewer Extension The sewer would be an extension of the one built by the state highway department when College Avenue bridge was built. It would drain the surface of E. John Street. The project would be an addition to a sewer construction contract which was awarded to Charles A. Green and Son, Inc.

The committee asked that Miller Electric Manufacturing Co. be permitted to pave and install additional catch basins on W. Fourth Street near Douglas Street, between two buildings the company owns. The project, to be done under city engineering department supervision, also would include a service tunnel under the street.

Two sidewalk installation requests by Ald. Donald W. Mueller hanging paintings in City Park were turned down by the committee.

Approves Sidewalks The committee approved sidewalks for the west side of N. Douglas Street between W. Wisconsin and W. Kamps Avenues and the north side of Wisconsin between Douglas and Gillett Streets.

The committee asked that N. Appleton Street be paved from Pershing Street to the end of the street next year.

The property owner west of the filling station at N. Richmond and W. Lindbergh Streets should make arrangements for access to his property through the station property, the committee agreed. Because of a power transmission line, the sanitary sewer is not in the center of Lindbergh, it was explained. The street won't be put in until the line is relocated and water main installed.

Water Laterals Not Required No sewer and water laterals should be required along Valley Funeral Home's parking lot on W. Marquette Street and Wisconsin Michigan Power Co. substation on Longview Drive if the firms sign agreements to pay cost of street refurbishing if laterals are put in within 15 years, the committee agreed.

The committee approved lending 300 feet of snow fence to Appleton Gallery of Arts for Aug. 19.

Packer Scout Sees Big Improvement In Team During Week of Practice

Post-Crescent News Service GREEN BAY — Saturday closeouts:

The Packers are looking better every day. Wally Cruise, Packer game scout, saw the big Bays Friday for the first time in a week.

"Man, what a difference from last week. They look like they're ready to go right now. Everybody's in shape—it seems," said Wally.

Cruise was accompanied by Louis Anderson, the Packers' talent scout from the Washington, D. C. area, who said "The Packers must be ahead of the other teams the way they look." Anderson, who also helps Cruise with game scouting out east, came out to see the Pack.

Drizzling Visitors There were a couple of other pop-eyed and drooling visitors yesterday—Coach Marty Mortorelli and Assistant Carl Virgmanini of the Superior State College football squad. Mortorelli allowed as how he'd like to have a couple of "those boys" on his team.

The Packers have one of Mortorelli's boys trying out—tackle Clarence Lacina, a 250-pounder who also specializes in wrestling. The Superior coaches were down to soak up some of Vince Lombardi's coaching techniques.

Paul Hornung is showing improvement every day... the handy back, who injured his leg in scrimmage Tuesday, is jogging right well and just for exercise Friday ran up and down the stadium steps. He tried out the new section.

Kick Field Goals While Hornung is in sweat-clothes, the boys in the back room are having some fun kicking field goals. Four tried their hand (er, foot) before Friday's drill — Ron Kramer, Jerry Kramer, Jim Taylor and Willie Wood.

Ron did right well Thursday but he was off Friday, which is enough to swoon Coach Vince Lombardi and his field goal coach, Norb Hecker. Ron did a lot of field goaling and extra point stuff at Michigan, winning a couple of games with his three pointers.

Jerry was Hornung's helper a year ago but he never got a chance under fire.

Taylor, with all the power he has in his pins, has trouble with the long boots. "It's not the power, it's the leverage," Vince explained. Jim is accurate from close in. Wood also does fairly well with his "sailers."

'Hitlers' Second Book, Published In Limited Edition FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—Adolf Hitler once predicted in a book that Britain and her colonies would join Nazi Germany and Fascist Italy in a coalition aimed against the United States.

The book, kept secret during Hitler's lifetime, was written in 1928 before he came to power as a sequel to his "Mein Kampf," the bible of Nazism. It has just been put out in limited edition under the title "Hitler's Second Book."

Hitler wrote that once the threat of America as a world power was checked, Germany would be free to send her armies eastward to wrest living space from Soviet Russia.

Russia, Hitler predicted, would fall apart with the destruction of "its Jewish leaders" because "the Slavs have no power to preserve a state."

The book hails perpetual warfare as the "highest driving force for the development of mankind." It follows Hitler's theme of "Jewish parasites" and "racial bastardization" as threats to the future of the world.

The book does not reflect Hitler's later attacks on "degenerate" America, but depicts the United States as a "Nordic-German" nation which "can be checked only by a state able to raise its racial value."

Ambassador N. A. Cheelham thumped his drink down on a table and stalked out of the room during a brief speech by Nkrumah.

Nkrumah, on a tour of Communist bloc countries, arrived here after visits to Moscow and Warsaw.

Family Has Three Deaths in 17 Days

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—Tragedy has hit the Pablo Montoya household three times in 17 days.

Pablo, a truck worker for the Kansas City Southern Railroad, was killed by a train on July 19.

Juan Montoya, 79, Pablo's father, died in a hospital Wednesday.

Late Wednesday night two bicycles collided and Ralph Montoya, 15, a son, was killed when his head hit the pavement.

One Out of Two

Make one word out of two other words. Combine the letters of two words, rearrange, and form one third word. For example, LAVE plus RES will combine and arrange into the one word SEVERAL. See what you can do with the following:

1. CANE plus RUINS.

2. SEER plus REV.

3. GEE plus BRAVE.

4. LICE plus TAR.

5. CELT plus MOPE.

6. STET plus CROP.

7. SMILE plus FA.

8. RUN plus MALE.

9. FEND plus COIN.

10. NOD plus MAIDS.

will be enough for one jingle

A jingle roller is a simple toy roller. Select the type of spool any boy or girl can easily make that has a wheel at each end which is of wider diameter than the body of the spool itself. Carefully remove one wheel spools that gift ribbon is wrap-around each spool and inside the ped around, a wire coat hanger, hollow body place two small bells some small sleigh bells and a -- the size that are sometimes smooth stick for a handle. tied to Christmas gift packages

The gift-ribbon spools should be will do nicely. Glue the wheel back of the same size. Three of them on the spool, enclosing the bells.

Unwind the wire coat hanger as shown in Figure 1 and run one end through the holes in the three spools. Twist the wire back together and, after straightening out or cutting off the hook, attach it with brads or tape to a broom handle or other smooth stick. The

Lesson in English

Words Often Misused: The adjective IDENTICAL is followed by WITH, while SIMILAR is followed by TO. Thus: "My plan is identical WITH yours." and, "His manuscript is similar TO the others."

Often Mispronounced: Positively. Accent first syllable, not the third.

Often Misspelled: Canape (appetizer). Canopy (covering).

Word Study: "Use a word three times and it is yours." Let us increase our vocabulary by mastering one word each day.

Today's word: fervent: warm in feeling; earnest; zealous. "It was his fervent desire to promote happiness among his neighbors."

2. What has been the largest empire in history, either of the ancient or the modern world?

3. In what year did Josef Stalin die?

4. What is the record number of stolen bases for one season in the major leagues of baseball?

Answers

1. " . . . I am the Captain of my soul." from the poem "Invictus," by William Ernest Henley.

2. The British Empire.

3. In 1953.

4. The record was established in 1915 by Ty Cobb, of the Detroit Tigers, when he stole 96 bases.

Bells ring inside spools finished jingle roller will now appear as in Figure 2. When a small child rolls it across the floor, the bells will jingle merrily.

Another way to make the toy is to glue very large, irregularly-shaped wheels to the ends of an empty salt box as in Figure 3. A stout cord threaded through holes punched into the ends of the box will serve to pull this lopsided spool and the bells will jingle as it bounces along. The small bells may be placed in the salt box by dropping them through the chute from which the salt is poured.

Economy Looks Good to One Financial Group

In Spite of World Troubles, U. S. in Best Shape Since '57

BY SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP) — America's economic status in the world is looking better all the time to at least one group of U.S. businessmen. They are sharply upgrading America's international balance sheet today.
And they are doing this in the face of the first hints of a new gold rush in London, the revival of some austerity measures by the British which could hurt American exports, and the call for increased defense buildup with its implied threat of higher taxes to come which many expect President Kennedy to make tonight to the American people.
In spite of this troubled world outlook, the Balance of Payments Group of the National Foreign Trade Council says we now look healthier than at any time since 1957.
That was when a strong tide set in against the United States at international deficits built up, and Europeans finally started a gold rush that last fall aroused doubts about the future value of the dollar.
The group is made up of economists and other executives of leading U.S. corporations with international dealings. Earlier this year it had estimated that 1961 would see a deficit of $1.9 billion in the U.S. balance of payments. Today it has cut that to $500 million. The deficit ran at $3 billion to $4 billion in earlier years.
The continuing deficit since 1957 has arisen because U.S. spending abroad for imports, foreign aid, investment, military bases and services exceeds receipts from exports and services and income on foreign investments.
Today's sharp cut in the estimated deficit comes when Americans are uneasy over the situation in Western Europe on several counts.
England is having a trade deficit crisis of its own and the pound has weakened. Today it is spelling out the belt tightening it must do.
The price of gold on the London market has started creeping up again and now stands 13 cents above the official U.S. Treasury price of $35 an ounce.
Expect Announcement
England may announce by the end of the month whether it will join the Common Market. If other European nations join the parade this will turn Europe into a solid trading bloc bigger than the United States.
But the National Foreign Trade Council group sees this as our healthiest payment year in the last four. It forecasts that exports of commercial goods will recover from a recent sag to equal the record level of $19.4 billion set in 1960. But it puts 1961 imports at $14.1 billion, the lowest since 1958.
The outflow of private capital for further investment abroad, including short term funds, is put at $2.8 billion this year. But the return of income on existing private investments overseas is expected to be $3.5 billion.
So the dollar looks safer than some of the disturbing headlines on the front page might indicate.

Oldster, on Way To Doctor, Fells Youth in Scuffle
CHICAGO (AP)—A 71-year-old man with a sharp counterpunch took time out on his way to see a doctor Thursday to quell a 37-year-old troublemaker on a bus.
When Roosevelt Walker began cursing the bus driver, elderly Fred Parker scolded, "You should be ashamed of yourself, talking like that."
Walker swung at Parker. The agile elder eluded the haymaker and countered with a short punch that sent Walker sprawling to the floor of the bus.
Police found Walker sitting on the bus floor holding his head and groaning, "I don't want no more of that old man."
Parker then resumed his trip to visit the doctor.
